Feudists Who Held Up Train are Being Sought by Authorities of Three Counties

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 9.—John Hatfield of the famous Hatfield clan of feudists, is being sought today by the authorities of three counties. Hatfield, with a party of friends several months ago, held up a Norfolk & Western train at Fernald, W. Va., and stopped traffic on the road for six hours. They escaped but last night Hatfield and Robert Cline were arrested in Mingo county. Aided by friends, it is said, they again escaped, taking with them Burman Hatfield, another member of the clan, who was in jail for some minor offense. Railroad officers have joined in the chase.

JAPANESE SEND DEMAND TO CHINA

AMOI, China, Aug. 9.—The Japanese government today sent a demand to the Chinese authorities here for the execution of three of the semi-Mongolian Tungan tribesmen and also an indemnity for the destruction of property and the killing and wounding of a number of Formosans in the recent clan fighting in this city. The demands must be filled by tomorrow, according to the note sent by the Japanese.

The Chinese officials replied agreeing to the condition except as to the time for carrying them out. They declare it impossible for them to effect the arrest of the clansmen in the period stated, as they have fled to the interior of the province.

SITE FOR HOSPITAL MAY BE SELECTED

At Next Meeting of the Municipal Council—Rep. Jewett Suggests Shack System—Other News

It is believed that action on the proposed isolation hospital will be taken at the next meeting of the municipal council which will be held next Tuesday at 11 o'clock. All the sites offered for the erection of this proposed hospital, with the exception of one, that of Mr. Reagan in Varnum avenue which was submitted to the council yesterday, have been visited.

Rep. Victor F. Jewett, who is a member of the committee recently appointed by house of representatives to obtain data concerning the care and treatment of tuberculosis in the various cities in the state discussed the hospital site question this morning. Mr. Jewett said the tuberculosis question is a very important one, and that Lowell ought to have a hospital to treat those afflicted by the white plague. "The trouble with the city officials," said Mr. Jewett, "is that they believe they are supposed to put up a palace for the treatment of tuberculosis, while all that is really necessary is the shack or camp system as now in use at the Lowell General Hospital. "As much as could be learned by the committee from the legislature there is only one other city as large as Lowell, which will not establish a hospital unless compelled to do so, and that is Brockton.

"What the state really wants in this isolation hospital business is that each city shall care for chronic cases of tuberculosis. The state will take care of the new cases, or the early stages of the disease, and try to prevent its spread, but the city is supposed to establish an isolation hospital for the chronic cases, so as to give the sufferers of the white plague an opportunity to be taken care of at home, and breathe their last in their home city, instead of being sent away from friends or relatives.

"Lowell has now 42 cases of tuberculosis, 35 of which are being cared for by the state, while the others are under the supervision of the city. In Cambridge there are 279 cases of tuberculosis, and all of them are under the care of the city."

Mr. Jewett then spoke of the various cities where isolation hospitals have been established, and told of the good these institutions are doing. He said for a city of the population of Lowell, he would recommend an institution with about 100 beds, that is one bed to each hundred inhabitants. He said the committee will be kept busy until the last of the year at which time their report will be put in shape for the next session of the legislature.

ATTEMPT TO BRING ON WAR

Sen. Williams Says There is Organized Effort to Bring Hostilities Between U. S. and Mexico

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Senator Williams of Mississippi declared today he believed an organized effort was being made to bring on war with Mexico.

"In my deliberate opinion there is now an organized and syndicated effort to bring about war between the United States and Mexico," said he, "organized with a lobby here, and organized and syndicated through newspapers with money behind it and not all of it Mexican money."

ENVY LIND WILL ARRIVE OFF VERA CRUZ ON BATTLESHIP N. H. TODAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy to Mexico, will arrive off Vera Cruz on the battleship New Hampshire before night. He probably will not be in Mexico City before Monday, and the diplomatic crisis between the United States and Mexico is expected to culminate before that time.

The next development in the situation is expected when Mr. Lind, through Charge O'Shaughnessy, presents to Provisional President Huerta, President Wilson's proposals to bring about peace. These will be published simultaneously in Washington and Mexico City and at the same time will be transmitted as a matter of information to the powers of the world.

Whether Mr. Lind's presence in Mexico will be "undesirable" as has been stated by the Mexican minister of foreign affairs will then actually become known.

Administration officials here are reluctant to believe that will be Huerta's attitude after he officially knows the purposes of Lind's visit. They take the view that the attitude of hostility was aroused by unofficial misinterpretation of the purposes of the mission.

Though there is no official confirmation of the statement it is said, the passage of the New Hampshire has been a slow one purposely to give the Mexican government opportunity to digest the situation. The big ship could have made the passage in 26 hours and reached Vera Cruz yesterday afternoon. There are, however, some physical obstacles which will naturally delay Mr. Lind's arrival in Mexico City until Monday.

Because of her heavy draught, the New Hampshire will be obliged to anchor five or six miles off Vera Cruz and navy officials doubt if any effort will be made to land the envoy today. The trip from Vera Cruz to Mexico City ordinarily takes twelve hours.

Before Mr. Lind arrives Charge O'Shaughnessy is expected to explain to the Mexican foreign officials that Mr. Lind comes only as an adviser to the embassy, not to take part in Mexican politics and on a thoroughly peaceful mission.

TO SWIM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

Henry Sullivan Enters the International Long Distance Swim

And Is the Only American Who Has Yet Entered

In a letter to Mr. John J. Neeson, of 210 Cross street, Henry F. Sullivan, the well known Lowell swimmer, who crossed the pond to take a try at the English channel, writes that he has entered the International long distance swimming race for the championship of the world in Paris, France, Sept. 7, 1913. He says that his is the only American entry at present and that England is represented by Jarvis and Billington.

Mr. Sullivan is in Dover, Eng., at the present time and he states that the weather is very bad. The water has reached a temperature of 57 degrees and he allows that is rather cold to stay in all day.

The Lowell swimmer says he will try to make the English channel Aug. 25, 26 or 27. He has ascertained that

On these days the tides are about right for the swim and if the atmospheric elements are all to the merry he will try the big swim. Mr. Sullivan says he is in the pink of condition and seems confident that he will make the channel.

Sullivan left for Europe several months ago after being given a great send-off by the members of the C. Y. M. L., under whose colors he will enter the international race. To his friends he writes that he is enjoying the best of health, but feels blue at times for the "girl he left behind." He also informed Mr. Neeson that he will keep his friends and members of the society informed as to the outcome of his swims and that in the event of accomplishing the great swim he will wire The Sun immediately.

MILITANTS HORSEWHIP JAIL OFFICER

LONDON, Aug. 9.—A group of militant suffragettes armed with horsewhips today assaulted Dr. Allen Campbell Pearson, the medical officer of Holloway jail, as he was entering the prison gates. The attack was made as a protest against the treatment in the jail of Miss May Richardson while undergoing a sentence of three months' imprisonment for breaking windows. Miss Richardson alleged that the doctor had threatened to deal with the militant suffragettes in such a way as to make them physical and mental wrecks, after which they would be confined in lunatic asylums.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

INCREASE IN GASOLINE Cause Autoists to Seek Substitute Fuel

A recent interview with a chief engineer of a motor car company on the subject of substitute fuels for gasoline in automobile engines disclosed a very interesting fact. He stated that he had been investigating the subject of fuels other than gasoline for internal combustion engines for a number of years.

The gradually increasing price of gasoline due to the excessive demand long ago challenged his attention, and he has made some very interesting and original experiments with other fuels, which show very clearly that the engines of present design are not at the mercy of a shortage in the supply of gasoline.

Among other tests he ran a two-cylinder, opposed-type, air-cooled engine with a widely advertised patent medicine as fuel. At that time, which was before the pure food agitation and adoption of the resulting laws, the medicine in question contained around 50 per cent. alcohol, and all that was necessary was a slight adjustment in the carburetor.

A well known automobile factory with a capacity of over 30,000 cars a year has recently been experimenting with kerosene as a fuel in some of its stock cars, using the regular engines, and has developed the fact that the automobile can be very satisfactorily operated on such a fuel.

Drivers' Bonuses

The bonus system for motor truck drivers, such as is now in general use in England and parts of Europe, is meeting with favor among American truck owners and manufacturers. The system is a simple one, merely providing extra compensation for those drivers who establish good records of economy and efficiency in the operation of their vehicles. An official has gone on record as being in favor of the adoption of the plan in this country, declaring that the extra cost to truck owners is more than made up in lowered maintenance costs and longer life for the vehicles.

The driver is a mighty important factor in successful motor truck operation and any system whereby his carefulness of his employer's interests and his efficiency are increased will surely be welcomed by American business men, while motor truck drivers are, as a class, as high grade workmen as can be found in the world, they are bound to do better work with the added incentive of a reward for greater efficiency and economy. The same rule holds true in every business; the well-paid, appreciated employee is the one whose services will be found the most valuable to his employer.

There are many heartily in favor of the plan of offering a bonus to motor truck operators and every fair-minded and careful owner will agree with them. It is thought, American employers, as a class, are progressive, and will see the desirability of rewarding extra good service.

As a matter of fact, the proposition is only one of good business. Owners who will offer a suitable bonus to those drivers who effect an economy in operating and upkeep costs will find that their profit is not only of the present, but for the future. A dollar spent in rewarding a driver who makes a record of using the smallest quantity of gasoline in a given time will bring multiplied returns for months. Not only is the driver who is entered into such a competition after the particular monetary reward offered, but personal pride prompts him to continually strive for a better record than his fellows. This spirit will effect a great saving in his work, for he is unconsciously learning that conscientious effort in his own means to the end of better conditions.

Good Service System

Automobile service is fully as important as automobile sales, in the opinion of a majority of motorists and it has always been the aim of the manufacturers to back up their cars with the best service possible.

Though the company does not maintain any branch houses or assembling stations, it should establish a service system. The secret of the success of service is that every dealer or distributor's contract with the company should contain an iron-clad agreement providing that a generous supply of fully-equipped and stocked service stations would be found.

Should the purchaser of a car meet with an accident that would result in a wrecked vehicle he would find, by calling at the nearest dealer, whether the latter be the one from whom he bought the machine, or a thousand miles away, that there is a complete line of parts on hand ready for his use.

LONG TRIP IN FORD CAR

Tyngsboro Couple Went 1200 Miles in 5 Days

One of the longest trips ever taken in a Ford touring car by a person hereabouts was completed this week by Mr. and Mrs. Phalen of Tyngsboro, Mass., when they travelled from their home in the above town to Milton, N. S., a distance of 1200 miles in 5 days. The trip was a very enjoyable one and a letter received by Mr. Stephen L. Luchette, of the Lowell Motor Mart and agent of the Ford in this city, from Mrs. Phalen, says that previous to the year she and her husband had journeyed to Milton by rail and boat, "two excellent trips," but that the Ford way of travelling is the only one and that her husband and herself are converts to the automobile. Mr. Phalen was among the most recent purchasers of a Ford from Mr. Rochette and his experience in the handling of an automobile is very limited, but the trip was made without mishap.

In her letter Mrs. Phalen writes in a most interesting way of the trip and gives considerable space to her enthusiasm in praise of the Ford car for the magnificent way which it stood up under the most trying conditions. Much of the journey lies through a mountainous district where little care is given to the road beds and she says that in many instances there were furrows in the roads that almost reached to the hubs of the wheels of the car. A slight delay was occasioned through trouble with a tire which had suffered a stone bruise and blowout, but this was all the trouble that was experienced.

The letter states that a race in which Fords will be the only cars used is being planned and the cars will travel from Halifax, N. S., to Liverpool, N. S.

Albion Feltner of West Tewksbury, Mass., accompanied by his family, has just completed a tour of the White Mountains in his Ford and reports an excellent trip without the least sign of trouble from the power plant of the machine.

Herman Selzer, a member of the American Window Cleaning Co., and D. W. Downs of Nashua, N. H., purchased Ford touring cars this week from the Lowell Motor Mart. Henry Williams who had earlier in the season purchased a car made another purchase this week.

More Premium Days

NEXT THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Only a Few Days Remain and You Will Have to Hustle

The voting this week has been heavy, particularly the past three days. Everybody seems to be "on the job." The time is now here when you will see the big contest become erratic. Enormous gains will be made by one and another.

A Fatal Mistake

Some workers in the contest are disposed to single out some precinct where votes in large numbers can be cast, and more or less depend upon their energies concentrated at this point to win for them. This is a fatal mistake and one that has brought many to defeat in the past. It isn't an occasional gush of water that wears the stone, but the steady drop, drop, drop that does so, and the writer issues this note of warning to anyone possessed of the idea that the route to success is not the general effort. Every ballot box should receive equal consideration and uniform effort if you want to get the best result.

We desire voters to understand that if you happen to know some large vote that has been cast for you and you find Saturday's returns do not include same, it is because all large votes coming from any source at this time are audited before being included. This is a precaution we must exercise in the interest of all and should in itself convince you that we do not propose to accept anything for its face value. We want to bring before your own committee of inspection at the close of the contest a clear, accurate set of figures that will save endless and avoidable labor. We can recommend in the highest terms the reports of all merchants and it is this careful policy that enables us to intelligently do so.

The next series of premium red letter days will witness a climax along this line. A tremendous vote was cast the past three days, which will contribute greatly to the position of certain of the contending forces when the final count is made. The campaign for this lucrative vote will be on in full force next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and in conjunction with the voting which is going on in the stores every day will send the figures bounding to unexpected heights. Understand, Premium Red Letter voting is not entered into the regular tabulation, but is held intact to be presented to the committee of inspection. It is high time for all interested to look about them and see if there is not a weak spot in their structure, and when they find it, to get busy and correct it. Some of you have need to take this hint; in fact, the writer can point to some of this in every working faction. Where one crowd is strong another is weak and where the latter shows the fullness of effort another is remiss.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Man Charged With Manslaughter

TAUNTON, Aug. 9.—Thomas J. Flood and Joseph Nolan were held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of John A. Haler of Portland, Me., after a hearing in the district court today. Judge Woods fixed the bail at $2000 in each case and in default of bonds the men were committed to jail. Haler was found in a critical condition on a ball field on July 24 and died of his injuries soon afterwards. In an ante-mortem statement, Haler stated that he was held up by two men who, when they found he had no money, set upon him and beat and kicked him. Medical Examiner McGraw testified today that an autopsy showed that death was due to peritonitis caused by a blow in the abdomen. Haler was visiting friends here at the time.

Arrested for Criminal Assault on Girl

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 8.—Alarmed at the threatening attitude of a crowd assembled near the county jail, Sheriff Tabler this morning notified Gov. Hatfield that he feared an attempt would be made to lynch Harry Stone, under arrest in connection with a criminal assault on nine-year old Virginia Minghini here last Thursday. Stone was arrested at Front Royal, Va., yesterday and narrowly escaped violence while being taken to jail.

Telegrams have been sent to every member of the legislature urging their attendance at the session Monday night.

Friends of the governor declared today that he cannot be impeached for misconduct in his present office; nor for anything he may have done before he took the oath of office. It is also contended that the members of assembly can take no impeachment action except at a regular session or at an extraordinary session called by the governor for that purpose.

COMPLIMENTS THE U. S.

Maj. Ross Scores British System of Sanitation

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Major Sir Ronald Ross, winner of the Nobel prize for medicine in 1902 and professor of medicine at the University of Liverpool, in discussing tropical sanitation at one of the sectional meetings of the international medical congress today, advocated the formation of a separate department of state to deal with the health of the community. He denounced the British system of subordinating the sanitary to the medical service and declared that the precedent introduced by the United States to the Panama canal zone, making the chief sanitary officer the head of both services, was a far better method. Sir Ronald, who has made a special study of malaria, was in the Indian medical service for many years.

BULGARIA WAIVES CLAIM TO PART OF KAVALA

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The announcement is made in a telegram from Bucharest, Rumania, today that Bulgaria has waived her claim to the port of Kavala on the Aegean sea. If this should prove true it would greatly improve the prospect of a genuine and lasting peace.

Athletes and Athletics

Why wouldn't an all-around championship be the next event in the local athletic order? There is a great deal of difference in opinion as to the relative merits of several local athletes. Wrenn, Leggett, Wood, McCarthy and several others all claim to be superior to the others in an all-around affair. Six events with each man obliged to participate in all of them in order to qualify would soon settle this question without the shadow of a doubt.

Six dates is all that Lowell has at home next week. New Bedford will appear here Monday and Tuesday. Popular Jesse will bring his Worcester club to town on Wednesday, the Lawrence leaders will be with us Thursday and Fall River will perform at Spaulding Park on Friday and Saturday. This will be the first visit of Billy Hamilton as manager of Dan Cloney's Pets.

Wolcott is still wildly yelling for a fight with Willie Rennie. He now wants to bet the champion $10,000 that he can knock him out and win back the title in twenty rounds. Ad has either had a sunstroke or is trying to get rid of his money as quickly as possible.

Porky Flynn and Sam Langford will appear in Boston in a twelve round go during the last week in August according to a report sent out from the Atlas club headquarters. Langford appeared in Boston last at the Army club with his meal ticket, Joe Jeanette, two years ago last winter so that Sam should prove a good card.

Johnny Evers has found at last that even a ball player won't stand for all kinds of abuse. Evers is the most merciless manager on his men that is handling an organized ball club today. Even Jesse Burkett would have to take back talk from the Cubs' leader in an argument. His men refuse to play the brand of ball for him that they are capable of and as a result Evers may lose his berth.

Gunboat Smith has laid the Pueblo fireman away for good and all it seems. Flynn will not draw again for any of the heavys, although nobody has the least doubt about his game. Smith's terrific right and left swings left their inevitable marks upon his opponent. Gunboat has knocked out many of his victims with these wild swings which landed on the back so that their force can readily be appreciated.

Smith, however, will have rather a difficult time laying low Langford with any of his famous swings to an opponent's back. Smith's manager has announced that he will pit his man against any colored fighter in the world and now we ought to see some real fun. Langford and Jeanette will certainly meet the Gunboat anywhere at any time.

Brooklyn didn't look like the same team that defeated us twice in an afternoon in her game with Portland yesterday. Brooklyn had five large errors to her discredit and her pitchers were touched up for fifteen safe hits. The score, 16 to 3, tells the tale.

Walter Johnson equaled the season's record of consecutive wins yesterday when he won his eleventh straight against the Naps. Johnson may spring a new season's record yet.

Southern pitched great ball against Lawrence yesterday, allowing them but four hits. These four safe counts were all collected in the last inning when the score stood 6 to 0 in favor of Fall River. Southern would undoubtedly be one of the league's most successful pitchers if he were with a first division club. Any twirler who can hold down the Lawrence team has our hearty approbation.

Ritchie has found another promoter who is willing to take a long chance on a big guarantee. It is reported that Ritchie will receive $16,500, or an option of 10 per cent of the gate as well as the moving picture films which will be taken of his proposed twenty round bout with Freddie Welsh. Just where Welsh will get off is not known. If the house is not larger, than the one that watched Ritchie and Rivers battle twenty rounds, it is hard to conceive where the promoter will break even. The expenses for the latter fight went over the $5000 mark.

GRAVATH IN THE LEAD

Of Pinch Hitters in the National League

Fence Breaker Gravath of the Phillies is likely to lead the National league in driving in tallies this year as well as in manufacturing four-base wallopers. During July the slugging Quaker pounded in 29 runs, which was ten more than any other player in the senior organization was able to drive home. Gravath's nearest rivals for the honor of being the National league's timeliest hitter last month were his team-mate, Fred Luderus, Vic Sailer and Frank Schutte of the Cubs and Larry Doyle of the Giants, who won the honor last season. Each of these men put the finishing touches to 19 markers.

Gravath excelled for the Phillies in timely hitting last month. Schutte and Sailer for the Cubs, Doyle for the Giants, Dodge for the Reds, Miller for the Pirates, Fisher and Cutshaw for the Superbas, Whitted and Kestner for the Cardinals and Rariden for the Braves. It seems strange to find, as was the case in the Boston club last month, a catcher proving to be his team's most valuable without yielding in the pinches. Rariden hit well all month, performing like a demon in the first game of the double-header with the Phillies on July 7. Then he batted in five runs, making a homer with the bases filled off Earl Moore.

Rariden was not the only National league who, during July, coming to bat with the bases occupied, cleared the bases. Others turned the trick were Bob Bescher, Joe Connelly and Herb Moran.

Below will be found a table showing the number of runs batted in by 24 National league players last month, the three leading pinch hitters on each team being included in the list:

Day State Employees Win

The baseball team of the local street railway employees defeated the railway team from Worcester yesterday on the South common by the score of 6 to 3. The game was very well played and largely attended. This is the third game between the two teams and yesterday's contest was the rubber as each had scored a previous win over the other. Lynch played a great game for Lowell.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—The Cardinals have obtained Ottis Crandall and are rejoicing. On the other hand, the Giants have put Larry McLean in one of their uniforms, and the goose seems to hang high on both sides. This trade was one of the most interesting of the month. Crandall has probably done the first aid to the injured act for New York more times than any other pitcher. He was always relied upon to pull the team out of a hole, and he managed to get away with the scout so many times that he lived on the reputation. The Cards wanted a reliable box artist, and they got him. On the other hand, McGraw was weak in maskmen because of Meyer's injury, and McLean is one of the best in the business.

DULUTH CREWS WIN
Take the Four and Eight
Oared Races

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—The sweeping victories of the Duluth four and eight-oared crews and the remarkable sculling of R. Dibble of the Don Rowing Club of Toronto featured the first day of the first national rowing championship regatta held yesterday afternoon on the Charles River basin under the auspices of the New England Amateur Rowing Association.

More than 25,000 people witnessed the events from the banks of the river and from the small craft which literally sprinkled the basin. The excitement near the finish line and in the vicinity of the Union Boat club was thronged with enthusiastic spectators who were kept in good spirits by the music furnished by the Municipal band.

Out on the river there were hundreds of motorboats, rowboats and the big torpedo boat destroyer McGowan.

The results:
Intermediate four-oared shells—Won by Duluth Boat Club (Moore, Rheinberger, D. Moore, Horak); Metropolitan Rowing club, New York (Deering, Troelich, Wells, Hayes); second, Malta Boat club, Philadelphia (Campbell, Horgan, Schenck, Cox); third, Time—7m. 59s.

BURKETT BEATEN AT HOME

Lowell Wins From Worcester
7 to 1—Zieser
Pitches Superb Game

Lowell went after Worcester yesterday from the call of play and defeated Burkett's club 7 to 1 in a one-sided contest. Zieser pitched superb ball for the locals throughout the game, while Thomas and Bates were both hit hard.

Lowell scored three runs in the first inning. Clemens walked and was safe at second when Conroy delayed his throw to nail him on Miller's grounder. DeGroff scored Clemens on his single to center and Miller went to third. Miller scored on Halstein's infield out. DeGroff went to third and came home when Carroll walked to the field leaving the plate unguarded.

Lowell scored two more tallies in the third. Clemens led off with a long triple to the right field fence. Miller popped out but DeGroff walked and stole second. Magee's long sacrifice fly brought Clemens in and Halstein drove DeGroff home with a slashing single to center.

One more run came across in the sixth. Halstein started the fun with a liner over Conroy's head into left field. Daly and Aubrey pushed him around to third on bunts and Halstein tallied on Dee's long sacrifice fly. The eighth session saw Lowell's last run brought home. Daly tripled to the left field fence and Aubrey sent one over Walsh's head for three bases, bringing the catcher across. Worcester's only run came as a result of Ross' two batters and Nye's single.

Halstein, Clemens and Daly did the bulk of Lowell's batting. Aubrey and Nye provided the fielding features of the game.

RESUME ANNUAL CRUISE

New York Yacht Club
Hoisted Sails Today

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 9.—The New York Yacht club, having established the Astor and Knickerbocker races for 1913, hoisted sail today to resume annual cruises along the New England coast.

The day's run was on familiar waters, with a start at Brenton's reef lighthouse, a finish at West Chop and a harbor for the night and Sunday in Vineyard Haven or what was known as Holmes hole when the first club boat put in there more than half a century ago.

As the winds for the run are usually abeam or astern some of the yachts have frequently covered the 37 miles in less than four hours. The record for the run is held by the Columbia, which in 1899 made the distance in three hours and 23 minutes.

The fleet which started today was somewhat smaller than the one that made the run from New London, through the withdrawal of several of the boats, whose owners were unexpectedly called home. Following the Eleana's retirement yesterday Commodore Charles Smith of the schooner or Muriel left the fleet today owing to illness in his family. The 11 class boats remained in Narragansett bay for racing at Pawtuxet. The fleet, however, was of good size and tonnage and while the big schooner flotilla had no fast competitor still Commodore Clark made up several match races of interest.

Corn Crops Suffer Heavily
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—A loss of 300,000,000 bushels of corn, the nation's greatest farm crop, has resulted from the great damage wrought by drought and other conditions since July 1, the government's agricultural experts estimated yesterday in their August crop report. A total production of 2,542,000,000 bushels of corn was predicted. This is 452,000,000 less than last year's corn crop.

A DELICATE SITUATION

At no time since the revolution that resulted in the death of Madero and the coming to power of the present provisional government under Huerta has the Mexican situation as it affects us been more involved or ominous. The country awaits the outcome with suspense and curiosity. In many quarters there are feelings of apprehension as to the probable outcome. This delicate situation has been brought about mainly by the attitude of President Huerta who seems determined to force the administration to grant him official recognition or take an aggressive attitude. He is reported to be unfriendly to the visit of John Lind as the personal representative of President Wilson and though there has not been official confirmation of the rumor it is said that the provisional president of Mexico will either refuse to see the envoy or expel him from the country as an undesirable alien.

If Huerta takes such a course it is evident that the dignity of America cannot permit a continuation of its present vague attitude of independence and forbearance. It must either back down from its present position or be ready to enforce the demands it has already made. Huerta plans wisely if his intention is to force the hand of the president, for if things turn out as predicted there can be no further ignoring of the gravity of the situation. It cannot be said that there is a general demand here for intervention, but there is danger of a future coming of the popular passions that would lead the American people to counsel the most extreme measures regardless of consequences. The president has been anxious for peace from the first but his well-meaning policy seems to point to anything but peace. The administration has acted on the assumption that any diplomatic relations with the Mexican government should be based on the real good of the country, but the Mexican government has refused to be a party to any line of action which did not primarily support the selfish interests of Huerta. The breach now seems too wide to admit of a speedy repairing.

Taking everything into consideration, the position of John Lind is anything but enviable. He goes as a trial ambassador without any very definite program and in the face of open hostility in Mexico. If his mission is mediation he will not be given a very great opportunity to test his ability as peacemaker, and if he is not a mediator he must descend to the position of special reporter or private detective. There are American commercial and financial interests which advise the recognition of Huerta but the administration has not given the slightest intimation of taking such a course. President Wilson says: "Anything but recognition." President Huerta says: "Recognition or nothing." If both continue to remain obstinate it would be folly to deny that even intervention is a possibility of a not far distant future. The reception of Lind in Mexico will do much towards deciding the future, and the country will await it with anxious interest.

THE DIRECT PRIMARY SYSTEM

The direct primary system that was rather foolishly expected by many people to wipe out all of the old abuses of election as if by magic is receiving very wide discussion at the present time. Friends and enemies respectively profess to have discovered in its operation unforeseen good and evil.

Its most violent opponents declare their aversion at seeing some of the old time politicians returning to power where elections have been recently held, and others regret the apparent sway of the political boss who does not seem to have lost his olden power in usurping the place of sane popular judgment in making selections for the higher political offices. To both we would say: The direct primary law will operate for good or for evil according to the aspirations of those who vote under its provisions.

No law of itself ever wiped out an evil. Laws and regulations point out the way but it is a waking sense of a moral sense in the public conscience which will ensure public righteousness. If the people do not desire a higher type of public official under the direct primary law than represented them under the old system why then the people and only the people are at fault if they do not get a higher type. No law will kill the desire of the professional politician to make money and to dominate the political field as of yore, and he will use every effort to achieve his end. That he sometimes succeeds at present does not of itself prove that the direct primary law is a failure, but it proves that unless the people avail themselves of the powers and privileges afforded them, all progressive legislation is a failure in effect. What the people require, even more than new laws is a respect for those which they already have and a realization of the duties and responsibilities of citizenship.

The direct primary has demonstrated at least that it is relatively beneficial in the fact that in a few instances men were returned to office since its adoption who altho they had shown thus far.

had held public office before it became law. This proves that though the people are guilty of serious errors of judgment sometimes they are not always blighted to real ability and public service. On the other hand it is almost certain that when the direct primary law is in operation for some years and possibly amended in some vital particulars such as that which compels the enrollment of all who take part in the primaries under party designation, the continuation of the undesirable element in office will be impossible. If availed of as it was intended that it should be, there need be no necessity for longer investigations in the future.

BAGOT AND RUSH TREATY

In these days when on one side we have Andrew Carnegie and his so-called "Anglophobes" and on the other a determined group who resent the attitude of England on the Panama canal tolls question and her refusal to take part in the Pacific exposition, it is refreshing to turn to a speech made recently in the house of representatives by Hon. George M. Young of North Dakota in which he called the attention of the house to a little known but very important treaty, made without a blare of trumpets or a very liberal display of red tape, between America and England. This treaty is known in history as the "Bagot and Rush" treaty and had for its object the mutual reduction of the naval forces of the great lakes. The treaty was made in 1817 by Charles Bagot, British minister to the United States and Richard Rush, acting secretary of state. The treaty was ratified by the United States senate and duly proclaimed by President Monroe, April 22, 1818.

Although this treaty when made was called an "exchange of notes," it was very far reaching in its consequences, and the simplicity and directness of its terms followed by a century of naval disarmament upon the great inland seas of the North American continent demonstrate that peace treaties such as those recently advocated by Secretary of State Bryan are not as impracticable as many who do not admire him profess to believe. The following extract from the speech of Mr. Young will illustrate the beneficial effect of this "Bagot and Rush" treaty and the honor with which each of the contracting parties has adhered to its provisions:

Those who favor naval disarmament by international agreement will find here the most practical illustration of the wisdom of that policy. For almost a century cities and towns have been permitted to grow up around the Great Lakes—the inland seas—without the least fear of destruction by a "naval force." Think of great cities like Chicago, Detroit, Toronto, and Montreal without the investment of a single dollar for land defenses either in men or forts. Think of what it has meant to business and the peaceful pursuits of these two great countries.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE

The agitation over the Binghamton fire tragedy has not as yet died down. It has given an impetus to fire protection campaigns in many places among which Boston is especially prominent.

In that city the mayor is constantly urging reforms in this respect and occasional reports justify his attitude. Fire Commissioner Cole of Boston recently declared before a legislative committee which was investigating the conditions under which women and children labor that "a factory in Boston employs 5000 persons, nearly all of them women, where most of the time only one door is left unlocked." Considering this terrible state of affairs we do not need to be told that "in case of fire the loss of life would be frightful." The terrible possibilities of conflagrations in crowded shops ought to urge the authorities on to the utmost vigilance, in Lowell as well as in New York or Boston.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS

Postal reforms come thick and fast. On September 2, the postal savings bank system will be extended so that every presidential postoffice will be a bank. This is a splendid idea which has worked successfully in most of the great countries of the old world: it would undoubtedly have been in force here years ago were it not for the indifference of congress on the one hand and the opposition of the banking interests and express companies on the other. Where the postal savings banks have been already established they have been a great success, and a genuine benefit to the community. Their extension will ultimately prove one of the wisest and most far reaching reforms of years. Postmaster General Burleson has demonstrated unmistakably that he is alert and active and actuated by a desire for the good of the country. One looking for effects from the present administration can find little fault with him or the general office since its adoption who altho they had shown thus far.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Glenn Food
Woonsocket Call: The women of New York have taken up the crusade against dirty food. Clean food is as necessary as what we call pure food. No man has any right to eat more than his pack of dirt. Most people have been getting several of them.

Not Yet
Springfield Union: At some time in the dim and distant future, Secretary of the Navy Daniels says, there will be universal peace, but it is not so important that we can afford to disband the army and let the navy fall into disrepair. In other words, the Hon. Josephus believes in hoping for and expecting peace, but being always prepared for the other thing.

Lind's Mission
Nashua Telegraph: Huerta has publicly proclaimed his refusal of recognition and other suggestions which have been made up in the air. Mr. Lind may possess marvelous discretion but his mission is attended with risks that never should have been taken even if it does not end disastrously. He is an emissary to nobody who is entitled to receive him officially without the standing or the safeguard of an ambassador.

Chicago's Policewomen
Brooklyn Times: Chicago's policewomen doubtless will be more than pained to learn, through the new list of don'ts the police department intends to treat them like common, ordinary women instead of superior beings. There are some very familiar warnings among the don'ts. For instance, don't talk too much, and don't stretch the truth. In spite of suffering and all that goes with it, a woman is but a woman in Chicago.

Joking Dangerous
Worcester Post: Ambassador Gerard hastens to cable the president that he was only "joking" in that talk about a $10 fee from Americans traveling in Europe in order to provide money for embassies. It was impossible to believe that he could seriously entertain any such notion; but joking is dangerous for diplomats.

Walsh
Boston Traveler: Will some enthusiastic anti-Walsh statesman explain how Walsh, as a candidate for governor, is to be defeated for election by him or three competing candidates? Walsh will not withdraw. Benton will not withdraw, and nobody—not even Foss himself—knows what he intends to do. He may sign an endorsement for Walsh before the campaign closes.

Hires the Help
Manchester Mirror: Office workers are not good for much unless they acquire accuracy and thoroughness. But in the happy days of school life there are so many dances that must be attended that it comes pretty hard to dig that tough old interest example out of the last partial payment. The anti-climax of all this fun comes when the young folks go up against the man who hires the help.

A Single Throw
Newburyport Herald: Castro is staking everything on a single throw. If he loses in this revolution he is likely to follow Maximilian and other unsuccessful leaders in Latin America to the blank wall and file of muskets.

Unheeded Warnings
Fall River Globe: It is strange that with the Triangle and Binghamton horrors in mind it should be necessary to bring offending employers into court to impress upon them the fact that they must observe the requirements of the law which are designed as a measure of protection against a repetition of those calamities. Nevertheless the inspectors in New York city have been finding the doors of some of the work rooms in the high left buildings, closed during working hours, in violation of the statutes.

Women Smoking
Lawrence Sun: Public opinion will probably soon make changes in the attitude of both sexes toward My Lady Nicotine. The gates of all occupations are falling before the daughters of Eve. They can work at any honest, clean task. Their habits and diversions will be likely to coincide more and more with men's. The future will probably see less discrimination between them and men on the tobacco question.

REV. B. F. COOLEY DEAD

Was Formerly Stationed at Chelmsford

WESTFIELD, Aug. 9.—Rev. Benjamin Franklin Cooley, aged 79, died at his home, 15 King street, yesterday.

He recently returned from the Dr. van Kely home in Holyoke, where he had been undergoing treatment. He was a pioneer in the Oxford movement in the Episcopal church. Rev. Mr. Cooley was born in Granville, son of Timothy and Jeanette (Andrew) Cooley. For some time he was organist in several Connecticut churches and later entered the ministry, being ordained by Bishop Eastburn of the diocese of Massachusetts. His early churches were at Chelmsford and Leominster. Later he went west and became a zealous advocate of the Oxford movement. He was preacher of the cathedral at Fond-du-Lac, Minn., rector of a church in Fargo, N. D., and was in charge of churches in Ontario and Nova Scotia. Returning east, he had churches at Easthampton and Rockdale. He returned to Westfield at an advanced age and occupied several pulpits in this section during that time, although he had no regular church. He leaves a wife. The funeral will take place at the Church of the Atonement Sunday afternoon.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A large number of the members of the Passaconaway tribe gathered in their wigwam in Odd Fellows temple last night with Sachem Daniel E. Starkey on the stump. It was voted to meet twice monthly beginning with January, 1914 and the dues were raised $1 per month. The trustees reported that the Indian statue on the monument in the Elson cemetery had been repaired and put in good condition. A communication from the great sachem was read and it was learned that the council term will expire on the fourth Saturday of October at which time the convention will be held. There were interesting remarks by Brothers E. T. Goward, F. E. Riney and Sachem Starkey.

Court General Dimon

The regular meeting of Court General Dimon, No. 217, Foresters of America, was held last night in Grafton hall with Chief Rector Abraham in the chair. A large amount of routine business was transacted and it was voted to hold a case initiation on the last Friday in October. The members will

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Now what do you know about this? Yes, it's true. The first arrest made by the new women cops of this city was that of a woman. Naturally this shocks you. It was a 194 to 1 shot that the lady policeman—or should be absolutely correct and say policewomen—would nab a mere man the first rattle out of the box. Not so. 'Twas ever thus with fickle women. Denies That the Government is Familiar With the Contents of President Wilson's Message

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Reports from here. The German foreign office today declared that it did not know the contents of President Wilson's message. Officials here avoid any suggestion of an attempt to influence President Wilson's policy in regard to Mexico but it is apparent that recognition of the government headed by Huerta is favored here.

FAIRIES AT THE KASINO CONSTABLES HAVE AT IT

Many Pretty Dances Executed by Children Struggle for Possession of Horse and Buggy

A large number of the younger element of the south part of the city were present at the lawn party held at the Casino yesterday in aid of St. Anthony's church. The large pavilion was decorated with colored bunting and Japanese lanterns were extended around the hall giving it a very attractive appearance. The place resembled a page from fairy land.

The feature of the afternoon was the "Flower Pageant" under the direction of Miss Blanche L. Perrin. About one hundred children took part in this number which was started at 2:45 o'clock. The program opened with fancy dancing and the fine work of the little children showed that they had secured thorough training and much credit is due Miss Perrin for the splendid performance of the little ones. The rose dance was probably the most elaborate of any. About ninety children took part in this dance and each carried a string of roses, over two thousand roses being used in the dance. Each child wore a white dress and a prettier scene has never been witnessed at this dance hall than the one presented by the little "toys" as they glided over the floor. The other numbers were also good, the minuette in which the girls were dressed in colorful costumes creating much applause. The same entertainment will be given this evening.

After the fancy dancing general dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by the Manhattan orchestra. The dances and the dancers of the afternoon were as follows:

Spanish dance, Miss Anna Tierney; sword dance, Miss Anna McMillan. Rose march, Catherine Shea, Bertha Sweeney, Lillian Flynn, Cecilia Friscoli, Esther Ringwood, May McGuane, Esther Sullivan, May Ray, Sadie Moriarty, Catherine Brady, May Walsh, Dorothy Delaney, Alice Walsh, Christina White, Mary Sullivan, Margaret McQuade, Mary Nelson, Eustie O'Brien, Helen Welch, Margaret Higgins, Hazel Rogers, Alice Spillane, Gertrude Corkey, May Harrigan, Gertrude Eastman, Elizabeth Horgan, Rose Markham, Dorothy Eastman, Anna Donohue, Helen Delaney, Margaret Sullivan, Deloras Regan, Jennie Connors, Mary Slattery, Anna Slattery, Helen Brannell, Mary Steel, Gertrude Madden, Dorothy Kelley, Mary Mello, Mary Welch, Vera Rourke, Anna Maughn, Stella Maughn, Katherine Guthrie, Rita Gorman, Lillian Keefe, Margaret Chase, Catherine McQuade, Lenora Markham, Sallie Markham, Mildred Cooney, Grace Sheehan, Alice Whitmore, Mary Ferris, Mary Silva, Winifred Whelan, Mary Avelle, Helen Neville, Margaret Clifford, Addie Curran, Tony Santos, Henry Santos, Joe Roche, John Martin, Frank Santos, Helen Corbett, Madeline Welch, Velma Corbett, Elizabeth Conway, Gertrude Sauer.

Seven Home Runs Yesterday

Lively slugging, reminiscent of the early part of the season of 1911, featured some of the "big" league games yesterday. Among the home runs made were several home runs. Leaders of the Philadelphia Nationals leading with two of them in a 16 to 3 defeat of Chicago. Becker aided his team in the Cubs' defeat with one homer, and the others were made by Hoblitzel of Cincinnati, Rodie of the Chicago Americans, Wingo of the St. Louis Nationals and the unusual amount of slugging and Wilson of Pittsburgh. Two pings was prominently accounted for by theory that the balls were made with an extra live core. Later an experiment made by a National league umpire and a Boston newspaperman indicated that at least some of the balls then in use were over weight, just enough heavier than ordinarily to make the hurlers unable to curve them much.

YOUNG NURSE FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM ON CHARGE OF POISONING DOCTOR

Struggle for Possession of Horse and Buggy

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Miss Emma E. Krill, the pretty young nurse whose love for Dr. Stanley E. Tron led her into her present difficulty, denies emphatically that she poisoned him with morphine and will fight for her freedom. A New York lawyer has taken up the case, although Miss Krill is reported to be without money, and will attempt to gain her release. She and Dr. Tron lived together, and the nurse refuses to say whether they were married or not. The supposition of the police is that they were never wedded, but that the doctor had promised to marry the girl. His delay or refusal to do so coupled with the fact that he was planning to go to Europe alone is given as the motive of the murder. The police have revealed Miss Krill's love tragedy by confiscating her letters and effects. It is claimed that the evidence warrants the nurse being tried for murder.

Cardinal Gibbons will be in charge of this service. Sunday afternoon the parade of delegates and members of the various societies will take place. Ten thousand persons are expected to be in line.

The various matters expected to come up for discussion include labor legislation, Italian immigration, social improvements, vice, and other matters pertaining to social service uplift. Woman suffrage probably will not be touched upon owing to the divergence of opinion of the members on the subject.

A set of resolutions will be drawn up and presented to the delegates for adoption at the final business session on Wednesday. These resolutions will touch upon a condemnation of socialism and commercialized vice and so-called immoral plays.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 8.—Thirty thousand persons are expected in Milwaukee to participate in the twelfth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, which will be held Aug. 10 to 13. Of this number 450 will be delegates representing more than three million members of the various societies which make up the federation. Among the most prominent persons who will be present are Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland, Keane, Messers and Gavigley and Bishops Muldoon, McFarley, Schwabach, Ebs, Skinner, Fox and Koudelka. Nearly all of these will address the convention. The ceremonies are scheduled to begin Sunday morning when the delegates will attend a pontifical high mass at St. John's cathedral auditorium.

EXCUSE ME

BILLIONS INVOLVED IN THE MEXICAN MIXUP

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

WHENEVER discussion of the Mexican question arises one is very apt to hear some one say the United States should "let Mexico settle her own troubles and let us attend to our own business and be ready any time to render such service as seems proper."

That sounds like good advice, does it not? It is good advice, but it seems to escape the notice of the adviser and of others that the course advocated as the proper one for Uncle Sam to pursue is exactly the path which the old gentleman marked out for himself some time ago. The result has not been satisfactory.

When the United States "lets Mexico settle her own troubles" she proceeds to heap up more of the same sort. When the United States takes steps "to be ready any time to render such service as seems proper," such as having troops on the Texas border ready for action and disinterestedly advising the Mexicans to put their government on a firm constitutional basis, the Washington government is accused of meddling and is suspected by Mexicans and others of having designs on Mexican territory.

Just how far the revolt or revolts against President Victoriano Huerta had proceeded before President Wilson's Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson home for a conference no man, either in Mexico or out, seemed to be able to tell. Washington officials high in rank, charged by the duties of their offices with responsibility in dealing directly with Mexico, confessed their ignorance. So did leading Mexicans in and out of their unhappy country.

How can a foreigner, for instance, find the truth when the representative of President Huerta in the United States says that "it is now a well established public fact that the so called revolutions in Mexico, which are merely unfortunate local domestic affairs magnified greatly by publicity, are becoming very profitable speculations for adventurers and filibusters, who make a business thereof, commercializing arms, ammunition, concessions, properties and securities to that end and poisoning public sentiments and opinions?" And when at about the same time Senator Fall of New Mexico issues a statement saying:

"The Huerta government, so called, has only been able to maintain itself without opposition of an armed character in the city of Mexico and other certain other garrisoned towns in the republic."

"The greater portions of each of twenty-five states out of the twenty-seven are at present in the hands of the opposition to Huerta, whether the opposition of the present allegiance be to Zapala, Carranza, Pesqueira, Martinez or other leaders. In the two remaining states armed bands are in operation against the Huerta troops." Provocation for American intervention in Mexican affairs is found, of course, in the disturbed state of business in that country, involving Mexican, American and foreign investments. Mines cannot be operated when miners cannot work for fear of bullets and managers live in constant dread of being shot if they refuse demands for money, dynamite, arms and ammunition and supplies. Cattle ranches cannot be maintained in order if there is no certainty that morning will not find the corrals broken open and the animals run off. So it goes all along the lines of business in Mexico.

The sugar cane industry in the states of Morelos and Puebla has suffered enormous losses in the past few months by the depredations of rebels," says one recent report. "The cane growing districts are overrun by armed men who live by foraging, and conditions have grown steadily worse under President Huerta. Zapala, leader of the rebels in the south, has forced sugar planters to pay heavy tribute. The burden has fallen chiefly on Mexican and Spanish property owners."

In addition to these losses, the internal strife in Mexico has postponed investment of American and foreign capital in sugar lands and the development of this as well as other branches of agriculture."

In advice sent to the state department by Marion Letcher, consul at Chihuahua, the comparative commercial interests of the United States and other foreign countries in Mexico that have been imperiled by the revolution are shown. The data were supplied by mining engineers mainly and are regarded as conservative.

United States citizens have a total of capital invested and properties owned of $1,057,000,000, the largest foreign holdings in Mexico. Great Britain has a total of $321,000,000 and France $143,000,000. Mr. Letcher's informants were unable to give him the total capitalization of the properties owned by German investors, but the amount is not considered greater than that of the British. The investment of native Mexican capital in the same line of properties as those included for the United States, England and France is $793,000,000, and that of all other countries combined is nearly $118,500,000. The United States investors have put $235,000,000 in Mexican railway stocks, $108,000,000 in bonds, $7,500,000 in bank stocks, $22,700,000 in bank deposits, $223,000,000 in mines, $26,500,000 in smelters, $52,000,000 in national bonds, $5,000,000 in timberlands, $3,150,000 in ranches, $9,000,000 in manufacturing enterprises, $15,000,000 in oil properties and $15,000,000 in the rubber industry.

These items are exceeded in no instances by the investments of other foreigners in Mexico, save that Great Britain holds $67,000,000 of Mexican national bonds, which is $15,000,000 more than Americans hold, and France has $60,000,000, an excess of $8,000,000 over the American interest.

United States investors are very largely the owners of Mexico's railways. Mexican capitalists have $125,400,000 of Mexican railway stocks—less than half the amount owned by citizens of the United States—and only $12,275,000 of railway bonds.

All this enormous total of investment, money taken into Mexico and left there in anticipation of a stable government that would permit the undertaking of permanent improvements, the development of the country and the making of profits, is endangered by the political turmoil.

Take, for example, the case of the National railways, a government institution with a large amount of European and American capital. It is one of the chief sufferers from the various revolutions.

The company is operating slightly less than 48 per cent of its mileage, and its gross revenues for the first week in July were only $600,000 as compared with $900,000 for the corresponding week of last year, which, in turn, had shown a loss of $300,000 from the year before.

WORLD'S BEST MARKSMEN AT CAMP PERRY TOURNAMENT

Photos by American Press Association.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS ON THE FIRING RANGE.

IN the days of the long hunting rifle competitions is any test. They are at Camp Perry, and they will try to of the backwoodsman, when Dave Crockett and his rivals could be squared in the eye at 50 yards—or so the story books told us, at any rate—American riflemen were considered the best in the world. They're the best yet at victory at international enemy on his own ground and took the honors away from him.

In straight shooting at targets with military rifles Americans have little to fear from their foreign competitors, but some of the matches arranged for the Camp Perry meeting present unusual features, and they may trip up the marksmen of the states.

The hard test will come in what is termed "the international rifle shooting championship of the world." It is a competition which has been going on for sixteen years among the European nations and in which the honors have gone easily to the Swiss. These fellows with the crosshatched legs and the eyes trained to hunt the chamois on his native crags have walked away with fifteen of the sixteen of the former matches.

The match calls for shooting at 300 meters against decimal ring targets, using what is designated in Europe as the "free" rifle. There is no limit to the weight of the gun. It is equipped with a hair trigger, and the stock is shaped so that it fits the contour of the shoulder and face.

In the standing position the arm is supported by a palm rest that extends under the barrel with a knob at the end. The knob is held in the palm of the hand. The stocks are so made as to be adjustable at different angles for different positions. The shooting is done in three positions, the marksmen being required to fire forty shots standing, forty shots kneeling and forty shots prone.

The American marksmen made a great hit in Buenos Aires last year, and the Argentine Republic donated a silver trophy for the team winning at Camp Perry. Besides, the team carries off $1,000 in gold. Next in importance to this match is the contest for the famous Palma trophy. Canada, Sweden and the Argentine will try to carry that off this year. It was won from Canada by the American shooters last year.

Nineteen hundred and twelve will be forever a red letter year in the chronicles of American rifle shooting, and 1913 may be another. In three countries to which the Yankees went last year they carried off first honors. At the Olympic games in Stockholm they won the international team match with the military rifle. Another team went to the Argentine Republic and captured the international team match of the newly organized Pan-American Shooting union. A third team descended on Ottawa, Canada, and brought back with it the Palma trophy, winning by eight points.

The United States army is taking great official and individual interest in the Camp Perry competitions. Many of the best marksmen of the army are entered in the competitions. The army authorities designated forty-two officers to act as range officers.

Sing Sing, New York Prison, Rival of Calcutta's "Black Hole," to Be Demolished

And they do well to hide their hell,
For in it things are done
That Son of God nor son of man Ever should look upon!
—From "The Ballad of Reading Gaol," by Oscar Wilde.

FOR almost a century New York state has had in Sing Sing prison one of the best known places of detention for criminals in the world. When penologists and criminologists have spoken of prisons for the purposes of comparison they have brought in Sing Sing as one of the largest of the world's jails.

Now they are voicing a demand for the demolition of Sing Sing prison. Their demand is supported by the united voices of statesmen, politicians and reformers. For many years Sing Sing has been a stench in the nostrils of all decent minded men, say these investigators. It is time to wipe it out and either build a new prison on its site or abandon the site altogether.

There are eighty-eight years of frightful history inclosed in the gray walls of Sing Sing. When the prison was erected, in 1825-3, the light of reason and humanity, to guide those who had dealings with offenders against the laws, had not dawned on the world. A criminal in those days, save to very few isolated reformers, was no longer a man; he had become a wild beast, a ferum natura, to be hunted and hounded out of the world as fast as possible. The newer, better ideal of regarding a breaker of laws as a man afflicted with a disease, as a victim of heredity or environment, had not arisen.

So Sing Sing, as were other prisons of that and former days, was built as a place of punishment for offenders, not as a place wherein men might possibly be reformed and restored to the world. Its narrow, cramped, unclean cells were and are adapted to the former end. They are cells for wild beasts in the form of men rather than places of abode for men formed in the image of their maker.

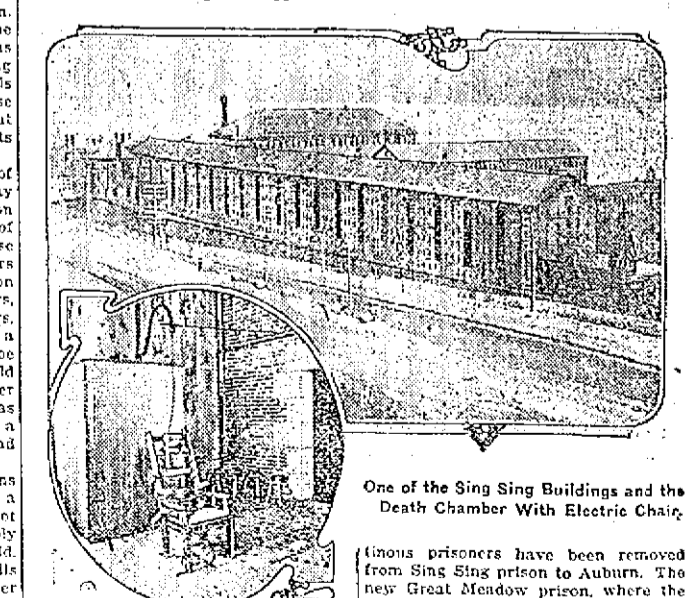

Sanitary science was almost unknown away back in the days of the building of Sing Sing, and its advance has passed the prison by. Cells intended to hold one man with inconvenience and distress of body and mind are now often made to hold two. There is no running water in the cells. Many of them are below the level of the Hudson river, on whose east bank the prison stands, near the village of Ossining, and the water seeps in and collects in dirty pools on the floors of the cells.

A man goes to Sing Sing under sentence of the law. He is well and strong physically, however depraved and distorted he may be morally or mentally. The state sentences him to confinement for a term of years. It does not sentence him to tuberculosis or chronic rheumatism or confinement in solitary imprisonment for eighteen hours at a time.

It has been said on good legal authority that a prisoner having competent counsel could demand release from Sing Sing on the plea that the constitution of the United States and that of the state of New York forbid the infliction of "cruel and unusual punishment."

Let this be thought exaggerated.

One of the Sing Sing Buildings and the Death Chamber With Electric Chair.

here is a quotation from a recent message by Governor Sulzer in regard to Sing Sing:

"I am mortified by the revelations. Today and for many years past this state has confined many thousands of convicts in cells seven feet long, three feet and three inches wide and six feet and seven inches in height. These cells are constructed in a rectangular cell block of solid masonry. The only opening in these cells is through the door. The door opens on a corridor, which itself is inclosed in the prison building. In many of these masonry pockets in Sing Sing there are confined two prisoners.

Of the insanitary conditions in the prison nothing may be printed here. They are too horrible for description anywhere save in an official, closely guarded report, written for the purpose of aiding reform.

ENFORCE NEW TARIFF ACT
Chas. S. Hamlin Will Start on its Passage

NO HOPE OF PASSAGE UNTIL SEPTEMBER 15

Democratic Majority Down to One by Death of Senator Johnston of Alabama

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—All predictions of an early passage of the democratic tariff bill by the senate are going glimmering. Majority leaders realize that notwithstanding the fact that they have set a new record in pushing consideration of this measure only a beginning has been made and the earliest any one now will promise completion of the task is Sept. 15.

Ten days ago, when a member of the finance committee said he thought the senate would pass the bill by Aug. 20, there were some who thought it might be possible, but that date is less than two weeks away and but four schedules have been considered, 35 paragraphs in these having been passed over for future consideration.

Now even those who suggest Sept. 15 as the date for final action are guided principally by hopes, and do not scorn the views of others that it will be a later date before the final vote.

There remain to be considered 10 schedules, among them the three upon which there will be the most vigorous attacks by the minority, namely, the wool, sugar and agricultural schedules. The minority is making a complete tariff record and shows no sign of letting up on amendments.

The death of Senator Johnston of Alabama has reduced the democratic majority on the bill to one vote, the Louisiana senators having determined to vote against it because of the free sugar provision. This has given rise to hopes in republican breasts that they may be able to put through an amendment to the wool or sugar schedules.

The switch of one democratic vote would turn the trick, unless a successor to Senator Johnston is named at once. Democratic senate leaders insist, however, that the 48 votes they have will stand firmly against any republican amendments.

No progress was made today, owing to adjournment in respect to the memory of Senator Johnston.

Charles S. Hamlin, assistant secretary of the treasury has begun preparations to enforce the new tariff act as soon as it becomes law. Requests for additional help to inaugurate prospective changes are pouring in from collectors of customs.

It is proposed to put the law into effect on the day after it is signed by President Wilson. This will avoid many of the embarrassing questions that arose after the passage of the tariff act of 1897, which became active upon enactment. It was signed shortly after 4 p. m., and every importation that arrived within the customs districts after the moment the measure was signed were subject to its provisions. This led to disputes extending over years, many of them reaching the United States supreme court.

Lakeview Park
The Sixth Regiment band, B. F. Tabor, conductor, will give a concert at Lakeview park tomorrow afternoon and evening.

As the special outdoor attraction for next week, the management has engaged the Holman Bros., clever, comely horizontal bar performers. The Holman Bros. are said to have one of the best acts of their kind in vaudeville and their appearance at Lakeview park next week insures patrons of this resort a first class attraction.

For Tuesday evening, Aug. 12, arrangements have been made for a return engagement of the famous Avelline band, and this organization will be heard in a select and varied concert program that will be given from 7 until 9 o'clock. The Avelline band is composed of talented musicians, many of whom are soloists and the concert given by them are a big feature and much appreciated wherever they appear.

Thursday evening of next week, another of the semi-weekly float nights, that have become so popular at Lakeview, will be held and elaborate arrangements are being made for this event. The grounds of the park and cottages on the shore of the lake will be illuminated with Japanese lanterns as well as the canoes and boats, and all are invited to join in making this event a success.

At the theatre, a new program of the last and best in motion picture plays will be given every afternoon and evening.

Entry lists for the boat and canoe races that are to be held on Thursday, Aug. 21st, are now open at the boat

JOHN D'S SON-IN-LAW FLIES TO BUSINESS; OTHER RICH AMERICANS MAY TAKE IT UP

HAROLD MCCORMICK PREPARING TO FLY TO HIS OFFICE

Harold McCormick, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, has set the millionaire of the country talking by his stunt of flying to and from his office in his hydroaeroplane. The car is named after his wife. He recently left his home on the outskirts of Chicago, and reached his office in 15 minutes. He said he was going to do it every day if the weather was clear. He is shown here putting on his aviation coat before a flight to his office. Mr. McCormick is believed to be the first American to actually fly to business. Other wealthy business men who are interested in aviation may try it.

is to be seen in "Graustark" the first of their many offerings.

This is a play which has been seen by more people in the United States than any other ever exploited. Perhaps you've read the book. If you have, you already know what a good story it is. If not, do so at once, then see this thrilling drama of American manhood in a setting of old world romance and tradition. It is a colorful picture of real heroism, of loyalty and loyalty, of a brave little princess, who has the courage to defy centuries of hereditary law and answer to the call of her heart, who declares from the throne, "Because I love him."

"Graustark" is a play which requires the full strength of the company and in it Grace Young will be seen in the role of "Princess Yvonne," the sister of this fictitious king. Walter Scott Weeks and Jack Hayden have been half way across the world. Howard Sydney and "Princess Yvonne" her friend and co-star, John Clark as "Prince Gabriel," the unassuming lover, and so on down through the list. Every member of the company will leave a role in which the audience will see the most favorable impression. Some artists have been busy the week out and carpenters have been kept on the go since the first announcement was made of the opening, so that a complete production in every detail is promised.

As usual the latest moving picture will be shown from 1 to 5.30 p. m. and from 7 to 10.30 in the evening. Prices 15 and 20c for matinees, evening, 10c, 15c, 25c.

At tomorrow's Sunday concert, the Temple Players will make their appearance this season and will be heard in new songs, in conjunction with other acts and a series of the latest motion picture plays.

The Casino
From the acousticon, where the Manhattan orchestra is positioned, comes dreamy music that is simply irresistible, and it is little wonder that the Casino is the scene of many happy gatherings. The hall is one of the largest in the state, and its surface cannot be made smoother. As for comfort, it needs only to be said that the Casino is situated on an elevation overlooking the picturesque South common, and it is exposed to every current that stirs the atmosphere.

Feudists Who Held Up Train are Being Sought by Authorities of Three Counties

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 9.—John Hatfield of the famous Hatfield clan of feudists, is being sought today by the authorities of three counties. Hatfield, with a party of friends several months ago, held up a Norfolk & Western train at Ferncliff, W. Va., and stopped traffic on the road for six hours. They escaped but last night Hatfield and Robert Cline were arrested in Mingo county. Aided by friends, it is said, they again escaped, taking with them Barman Hatfield, another member of the clan, who was in jail for some minor offense. Railroad officers have joined in the chase.

ADELARD LESSARD FELL DOWN STAIRS

Thursday Evening and Died This Morning — Medical Examiner Investigates Cause of Death

Dr. T. B. Smith, assistant medical examiner, is to make an investigation on the death of Adelard Lessard, which occurred this morning at the home of his uncle, Adele Carle, 88 Ford street. According to the story of Mr. Carle, his nephew fell down a flight of stairs on Thursday evening, and died this morning without regaining consciousness. Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning word was sent to the establishment of Undertaker Joseph Albert in Alken street, relative to a death at 88 Ford street. Inasmuch as Mr. Albert was away directing a funeral, the party in charge of his office called a local embalmer and gave him instructions to embalm the body of Adelard Lessard, which was at 88 Ford street. The embalmer repaired to the above address, but after learning the circumstances of the death refused to do any work until the medical examiner had viewed the remains. Dr. T. B. Smith, assistant medical examiner was then notified and after viewing the remains, questioned a number of people relative to the accident which it is said occurred Thursday evening. When seen this afternoon, Dr. Smith said he was not yet ready to sign the death certificate, for he is to investigate further. He said he had a few more witnesses to question. The writer this afternoon called at the home of Mr. Carle in Ford street, which by the way is on the third floor, and was told the following facts relative to the accident by Mr. Carle: "Thursday evening Adelard Lessard, who is my nephew, and who is employed as a section hand on the Boston & Maine railroad, went to the Northern station to bid good-bye to his brother-in-law, who left for Canada. On his return he intended to come to my home and on his way up to my apartment he fell down a flight of stairs. Shortly after 10 o'clock a boy came in and told me my nephew was coming up the stairs. I went into the hallway and arrived there just in time to see Mr. Lessard tumbling down the stairs. I rushed down and found the young man in an unconscious condition. I summoned help and we carried the injured man into my home. "I examined Lessard's body all over, but with the exception of a small blue spot on one hip, I failed to find any injury. The next morning the young man had not regained consciousness and Dr. G. E. Caisse was summoned. Despite medical attendance Lessard failed to revive and this morning he breathed his last shortly before 8 o'clock. "Mr. Carle when questioned by the reporter as to whether he thought there was foul play in relation with the death of his nephew, said he did not believe there was, for he said he saw the young man tumble down the flight of stairs, and there was light enough in the hallway at the time to enable him to see that the young man was alone in the corridor. He said he believes his nephew took a fainting spell and lost his balance. "Deceased was 30 years and 6 months old and resided at 189 Hall street. He is survived by a wife, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berromme Lessard; two sisters, Marie Jeanne and Maria, and three brothers, Arthur, Joseph, and Emil Lessard. "At 4:20 o'clock this afternoon Dr. Smith said he had come to the conclusion that Lessard's death was due to an accidental fall.

Their screams attracted the woman's father, Aaron Hand, and her brother, Ray Hand, who lived in an adjoining house. The two men took shotguns but Sandford had disappeared. They sent Mrs. Sandford and the children to the Hand home and sat down to await Sandford's return. In a few minutes flames began issuing from Mr. Hand's house. ### ENVOY LIND WILL ARRIVE OFF VERA CRUZ ON BATTLESHIP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy to Mexico, will arrive on Vera Cruz on the battleship New Hampshire before night. Lind probably will not be in Mexico City before Monday, and the diplomatic crisis between the United States and Mexico is expected to culminate before that time.

The next development in the situation is expected when Mr. Lind, through Charge O'Shaughnessy presents to Provisional President Huerta President Wilson's proposals to bring about peace. These will be published simultaneously in Washington and Mexico City and at the same time will be transmitted as a matter of information to the powers of the world.

Whether Mr. Lind's presence in Mexico will be "undesirable" as has been stated by the Mexican minister of foreign affairs will then actually become known.

Administration officials here are reluctant to believe that he will be Huerta's attitude after he officially knows the purposes of Lind's visit. They take the view that the attitude of hostility was aroused by "official misinterpretation of the purposes of the mission."

Though there is no official confirmation of the statement it is said the passage of the New Hampshire has been a slow one purposely to give the Mexican government opportunity to digest the situation. The big ship could have made the passage in 25 hours and reached Vera Cruz yesterday afternoon. There are, however, some physical obstacles which will naturally delay Mr. Lind's arrival in Mexico City until Monday.

Because of her heavy draught the New Hampshire will be obliged to anchor five or six miles off Vera Cruz and navy officials doubt if any effort will be made to land the envoy today. The trip from Vera Cruz to Mexico City ordinarily takes twelve hours.

Before Mr. Lind arrives Charge O'Shaughnessy is expected to explain to the Mexican foreign officials that Mr. Lind came only as an adviser to the embassy, not to take part in Mexican politics and on a thoroughly peaceful mission.

SEN. SMITH SAYS WASHINGTON LAWYER HAD MUCH TO DO WITH WILSON'S REMOVAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The Mexican situation bobbed up in the senate today when Senator Smith of Michigan declared that S. G. Hopkins, a Washington lawyer, as representative of the constitutional forces, "had the ear of the state department" and "had much to do with the removal of Ambassador Wilson."

Senator Smith's speech caused a flurry on the democratic side of the chamber and an apparent attempt was made by democratic leaders to shut off discussion. Senator Swanson, however, sharply assailed Senator Smith for coming directly from a meeting of the foreign relations committee of which both were members and mak-

CHANGE RACE COURSE

Breeze Made the Charles River Chippy

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—A breeze that sprang up during the afternoon made the water in the Charles river basin so choppy that the regular regatta course was abandoned and today's races of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen were rowed farther upstream where water conditions were better. The course was laid off Newton, between the start and finish at Cottage Farm bridge, a long distance from telegraph and telephone wires.

There was special interest in the senior eight-oared race in which Boston's crack schoolboy was pitted against the New York Athletic club's crew and the eight of the Detroit and Duluth Boat clubs.

Owing to the action of the regatta committee in being compelled to change the regatta course from the lower basin of the Charles river to the upper basin, a delay of nearly two hours in the starting of the second day's events was occasioned. Under the new arrangement necessitated by the rough water, nearly all the oarsmen were quartered fully two miles from the starting point and it required a long time to transfer all of the shells to the new course, it being too rough for the oarsmen to row them up. With the delay the start it was doubtful whether the committee would be able to pull off the entire regatta card before dark.

The water of the new course was none too good. At 1:30 o'clock the hour set for the start of the first event, a 20-mile wind was hitting the river pretty hard and the regatta committee postponed the start until 2:30, and again at the latter hour until 3 o'clock.

JOSEPH DALLAGHER LAID AT REST

Funeral Services at the Immaculate Conception Church

THE LATE JOSEPH DALLAGHER

The funeral of Joseph H. Dallagher, whose death a few days ago brought sorrow to the hearts of many, took place this morning and was one of the largest funerals seen in this city for some time. The funeral services were held at the Immaculate Conception church and there were several hundred people present. Mr. Dallagher was an overster in the weaving department of the Massachusetts mills and was beloved by all with whom he came in contact.

The large funeral cortege moved from the home of the deceased, 114 Bartlett street, at 9:45 o'clock and wended its way to the church, where a large congregation was in attendance. In order to give every employee of the Massachusetts mills an opportunity to attend the funeral the weekly pay was distributed at 8 o'clock instead of at 10 o'clock, as is customary, and shortly before 10 o'clock the departments were shut down, and all repaired to the church, several nationalities being represented in the congregation.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at 10 o'clock, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., pastor, assisted by Rev. Fr. Hammon, O. M. I., of Otisville, and Rev. Edmond Chaput, O. M. I., of Buffalo as sub-deacon.

The bearers were Alphonse E. Gregory, superintendent of the Massachusetts mills; Henry J. Rogers, an overster for the same company; Owen O'Neill, Geo. W. Shields of the Holy Name society;

John McPadden and Dr. T. B. Smith of Court Merrimack, F. of A. The ushers at the house and church were William F. Conroy, John Conroy, P. J. Convey, Frank Wiggins, George R. O'Neill and Dennis F. Lynch.

Burial took place in the Catholic cemetery, where the committal prayers were read at the grave by Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Peter Davey.

The delegates and societies represented were as follows: Holy Name society of the Immaculate Conception church; Patrick Hollowood, John O'Neill, P. J. Byrne and James Brown; Court Merrimack, No. 11, F. of A., John DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 9.—Indications today are that the strike of the Misabe ore dock workers has been broken. One of the ore-carrying steamers cleared early in the day with a full cargo and another is scheduled to leave later. President McGonagle of the Duluth, Misabe & Northern Co., said the strikers were returning to work. At a meeting of business men of Duluth today resolutions were adopted denouncing the Industrial Workers of the World, which called the strike. There was a fight in the main street of the city today between Industrial leaders who tried to hold an open air meeting of strikers and special police of the Oliver Mining Co. Two of the former were severely beaten.

BIG MEETING

of Boston who came to Lowell for the purpose of re-organizing the machinists here. Mr. Young's territory includes Lowell, Lawrence and Nashua.

In accordance with the plans mapped out for the formation of the new lodge of association, a meeting was held in Cotton Spinnery last night and a number of machinists put in an appearance that it was necessary for the Trades and Labor council, who attended in a body, to move out and make room for the men desirous of joining the new lodge.

No less than 175 applications were received and as many more were on hand to make application, but the clerks found it a physical impossibility to accommodate them. It was an open meeting and smoke talk and the hall, so to speak, remained open till midnight, but despite that fact only about half of those desirous of joining were accommodated. Those who were disappointed last night, however, will be given an opportunity to file their applications at a meeting to be held next Tuesday night.

There were over 400 men present at the meeting which was presided over by Willard F. Ireland, chairman of the old association. The speakers included Organizer Young, Charles Anderson, of the machinists; Joseph Convey of the Theatrical Stage Employees' union; Mr. Quirk, of the Bartenders' union, and representatives of other local labor unions.

The Efficiency System

It was stated at the meeting that a shop in Lowell is introducing some sort of an "efficiency system" to which the machinists are very much opposed. The purpose of the new system is to eliminate any unnecessary movements on the part of the operative and one man quoted a Harvard professor as declaring that the so-called unnecessary movements were necessary in order to give the operative the rest and change required in the operation of his machine or whatever tools he may use at his work. The system in question trains the operative to use the muscles of his arms to such advantage as to produce more work in a given time and the management makes the claim that in this way a shorter time and earn wages. The machinists, however, cannot see it in this light, and they condemn the system most heartily. "Under this system," said one speaker, "a man would lose his individuality in five years and ten years of it would kill him."

BOILERMAKERS TO RETURN TO WORK

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—Announcement was made today that the striking boilermakers would return to work at five shops on Monday. Eleven hundred boilermakers employed by 13 companies in Massachusetts have been on strike for ten weeks for better wages and working conditions. Eight shops have failed to sign new contracts with their striking workers as yet.

The firms which have reached agreements with their employees are the Atlantic Works, East Boston; George Lawley & Sons Co., Neponset; Robert Iron Works, Cambridge; East Dredging Co. and the Boston Tow-boat Co., East Boston.

MANY OUTINGS

At night. The cars were decorated with streamers of bunting bearing the name of the shop. During the two hours' ride to the beach the party sang and cheered and it was a merry lot that descended from the car at Revere about 10:30 o'clock.

Arriving at the beach the group divided into sections and many enjoyed the "briny deep dip," while others walked up and down the beach until dinner time. After partaking of a shore dinner the various entertainment houses along the beach were visited and the committee in charge had a well arranged program all prepared.

It is planned to have luncheon on the beach this evening and after dancing at one of the popular pavilions the party will again board the special for the return trip. The affair was in charge of Omer Laroche.

$200,000 FIRE IN DETROIT TODAY

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 9.—Fire early today destroyed the Welt & Sons Paper Co.'s four story building at 118-122 West Larned street and spread westward into the buildings occupied by the Royal Valley Coffee Co. and the General Grocery Co. The losses probably will exceed $200,000.

In charge of the affair had something doing all the time and the day proved very enjoyable.

It is planned to return to their home town early this evening. The affair was in charge of a committee headed by Rev. L. Perry.

Many at the Beach

Several other outings were held today, a large number of shop employees enjoying the half holiday at Revere beach while many groups were seen going to nearby summer resorts for the day.

3000 RETURN TO WORK

Copper Mine Owners Claim Victory

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 8.—Copper mine operators today claim the complete rout of the Western Federation of Miners in its strike here for higher wages, an eight hour day, abolishment of the one man drill and recognition of the union. One thousand men returned to work today and 1000 have signed lists asking the company to resume mining operations and give them protection.

Last night two thousand men were at work.

No demands for changes in working conditions were made by the men returning today, but it is said that the mining companies will raise the wage scale and probably give the men the eight hour day shortly after the strike is settled. Late today the officers of the mining companies many miners congregated and offered to go to work. They were given positions as fast as they could be assigned.

THIRTY-SECOND VICTIM OF N. Y. FACTORY FIRE

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 9.—The thirty-second victim was added late yesterday to the list of those who perished in the fire of the Binghamton Clothing Co.'s plant. Mrs. May Layton died at the city hospital from burns and injuries in jumping from the fourth floor of the burning building.

WOMAN SICK FOURTEEN YEARS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sensitive Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ailments known of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80 Page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution as it is too expensive. It is free, and only obtainable by mail. Write for it to-day. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

McLEAN AND CRANDALL FIT IN SPLENDIDLY
FOR GIANTS AND CARDS AFTER THE SWAP

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—The Cardinals have obtained Ouis Crandall and are rejoicing. On the other hand, the Giants have put Larry McLean in one of their uniforms, and the guess seems to hang high on both sides. This trade was one of the most interesting of the month. Crandall has probably done the first aid to the injured act for New York more times than any other pitcher. He was always relied upon to pull the team out of a hole, and he managed to get away with the stunt so many times that he lived on the reputation. The Cards wanted a reliable box artist, and they got him. On the other hand, McGraw was weak in makeshift because of Meyer's injury, and McLean is one of the best in the business.

DULUTH CREWS WIN
Take the Four and Eight
Oared Races

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The sweeping victories of the Duluth four and eight-oared crews and the remarkable sculling of E. Dibble of the Dan Rowing Club of Toronto featured the first day of the 41st annual rowing championship regatta held yesterday afternoon on the Charles River basin under the auspices of the New England Amateur Rowing association.

More than 25,000 people witnessed the events from the banks of the river and from the small craft which literally sprinkled the basin. The expanse near the finish line and in the vicinity of the Union Boat Club was thronged with enthusiastic spectators who were kept in good spirits by the music furnished by the Municipal band.

Out on the river there were hundreds of motorboats, rowboats, towboats and the big torpedo boat destroyer McDonough.

The results: Intermediate four-oared shells—Won by Duluth Boat Club (Moore, Rheinberger, D. Moore, Horak); Metropolitan Rowing club, New York (Deering, Troelich, Wells, Hayes), second; Malta Boat club, Philadelphia (Campbell, Brogan, Schenck, Cox), third. Time—1m. 55s.

Senior quadruple sculls (centipede)—Won by Riverside Boat club (Faulkner, Livingston, Davis, C. Faulkner); Union Boat club (May, Ayer, Withington, Wiggin), second; Nonpareil R. C. New York (Pearce, Schwartz, Crowley, DeLacey), third. Time, 7m. 2s.

Intermediate eight-oared shells—Won by Duluth Boat club (Moore, Rheinberger, D. Moore, Horak); Metropolitan Rowing club, New York (Deering, Troelich, Wells, Hayes), second; Malta Boat club, Philadelphia (Campbell, Brogan, Schenck, Cox), third. Time—1m. 55s.

BURKETT BEATEN AT HOME

Lowell Wins From Worcester 7 to 1—Zieser Pitches Superb Game

Lowell went after Worcester yesterday from the call of play and defeated Burkett's club 7 to 1, in a one-sided contest. Zieser pitched superb ball for the Lucals throughout the game, while Thomas and Bates were both hit hard.

Lowell scored three runs in the first inning. Clemens walked and was safe at second when Cooney delayed his throw to nail him on Miller's grounder. DeGroot scored Clemens on his single to center and Miller went to third. Miller scored on Halstein's infield out. DeGroot went to third and came home when Carroll walked to the field leaving the plate unguarded.

Lowell scored two more rallies in the third. Clemens led off with a long triple to the right field fence. Miller popped out but DeGroot walked and stole second. Magee's long sacrifice fly brought Clemens in and Halstein drove DeGroot home with a slashing single to center.

One more run came across in the sixth. Halstein started the run with a liner over Cooney's head into left field. Daly and Aubrey pushed him around to third on bunts and Halstein tallied on Dea's long sacrifice fly. The eighth session saw Lowell's last run brought home. Daly tripled to the left field fence and Aubrey sent one over Walsh's head for three bases, bringing the enticer across. Worcester's only run came as a result of Roca's two bagger and Nye's single.

Halstein, Clemens and Daly did the bulk of Lowell's batting. Aubrey and Nye provided the fielding features of the game. The score:

RESUME ANNUAL CRUISE

New York Yacht Club Hoisted Sails Today

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 2.—The New York Yacht club, having established the Astor and King's cup races for 1913, hoisted sail today to resume the annual cruise along the New England coast.

The day's run was on familiar waters, with a start at Brenton's reef lightship, a finish at West Chop and a harbor for the night and Sunday in Vineyard Haven or what was known as Holmes hole when the first club boat put in there more than half a century ago. As the winds for the run are usually abeam or astern some of the yachts have frequently covered the 37 miles in less than four hours. The record for the run is held by the Columbia, which in 1899 made the distance in three hours and 23 minutes. The fleet which started today was somewhat smaller than the one that made the run from New London, through the withdrawal of several of the boats, whose owners were unexpectedly called home. Following the Eleasa's retirement yesterday Commodore Charles Smith of the schooner Marlet left the fleet today owing to illness in his family. The H. class boats remained in Narragansett bay for racing at Pawtuxet. The fleet, however, was of good size and tonnage and while the big schooner Iroquois had no fast competitor still Commodore Clark made up several match races of interest.

Corn Crops Suffer Heavily
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A loss of 300,000,000 bushels of corn, the nation's greatest farm crop, has resulted from the great damage wrought by drought and other conditions since July 1, the government's agricultural experts estimated yesterday in their August crop report. A total production of 2,672,000,000 bushels of corn was predicted. This is 452,000,000 less than last year's corn crop.

A DELICATE SITUATION

At no time since the revolution, that resulted in the death of Madero and the coming to power of the present provisional government under Huerta has the Mexican situation as it affects us been more involved or ominous. The country awaits the outcome with suspense and curiosity. In many quarters there are feelings of apprehension as to the probable outcome. This delicate situation has been brought about mainly by the attitude of President Huerta who seems determined to force the administration to grant him official recognition or take an aggressive attitude. He is reported to be unfriendly to the visit of John Lind as the personal representative of President Wilson and though there has not been official confirmation of the rumor it is said that the provisional president of Mexico will either refuse to see the envoy or expel him from the country as an undesirable alien.

If Huerta takes such a course it is evident that the dignity of America cannot permit a continuation of its present vacillating attitude of indecision and forbearance. It must either back down from its present position or be ready to enforce the demands it has already made. Huerta plans wisely if his intention is to force the hand of the president. If things turn out as predicted there can be no further ignoring of the gravity of the situation. It cannot be said that there is a general demand here for intervention, but there is danger of a future rising of the popular passions that would lead the American people to counsel the most extreme measures regardless of consequences. The president has been anxious for peace from the first but his well-meant policy seems to point to anything but peace. The administration has acted on the assumption that any diplomatic relations with the Mexican government should be based on the real good of the country, but the Mexican government has refused to be a party to any line of action which did not primarily support the selfish interests of Huerta. The breach now seems too wide to admit of a speedy repairing.

Taking everything into consideration, the position of John Lind is anything but enviable. He goes as a trial ambassador without any very definite program and in the face of open hostility in Mexico. If his mission is mediation he will not be given a very great opportunity to test his ability as a peacemaker, and if he is not a mediator he must descend to the position of special reporter or private detective. There are American commercial and financial interests which advise the recognition of Huerta but the administration has not given the slightest intimation of taking such a course. President Wilson says: "Anything but recognition." President Huerta says: "Recognition or nothing." If both continue to remain obstinate it would be folly to deny that even intervention is a possibility of a not far distant future. The reception of Lind in Mexico will do much towards deciding the future, and the country will await it with anxious interest.

THE DIRECT PRIMARY SYSTEM

The direct primary system that was rather foolishly expected by many people to wipe out all of the old abuses of election as if by magic is receiving very wide discussion at the present time. Friends and enemies respectively profess to have discovered in its operation unforeseen good and evil.

Its most violent opponents declare their astonishment at seeing some of the old time politicians returning to power where elections have been recently held, and others regret the apparent sway of the political boss who does not seem to have lost his olden power in usurping the place of sane popular judgment in making selections for the higher political offices. To both we would say: "The direct primary law will operate for good or for evil according to the aspirations of those who vote under its provisions."

No law of itself ever wiped out an evil. Laws and regulations point out the way but it is a waking of a moral sense in the public conscience which will ensure public righteousness. If the people do not desire a higher type of public official under the direct primary law than represented them under the old system why then the people and only the people are at fault if they do not get a higher type. No law will kill the desire of the professional politician and state-maker to dominate the political field as of yore, and he will use every effort to achieve his end. That he sometimes succeeds at present does not itself prove that the direct primary law is a failure, but it proves that unless the people avail themselves of the power and privileges afforded them, all progressive legislation is a failure in effect. What the people require even more than new laws is a respect for those which they already have and a realization of the duties and responsibilities of citizenship.

The direct primary has demonstrated at least that it is negatively beneficial in the fact that in a few instances men were returned to office since its adoption who had held public office before it became law. This proves that though the people are guilty of serious errors of judgment sometimes they are not always blind to real ability and public service. On the other hand it is almost certain that when the direct primary law is in operation for some years and possibly amended in some vital particulars such as that which compels the enrollment of all who take part in the primaries under party designation, the continuation of the undesirable element in office will be impossible. If avoided as it was intended that it should be, there need be no necessity for Lorimer investigations in the future.

BAGOT AND RUSH TREATY

In these days when on one side we have Andrew Carnegie and his so-called "Anglo-Americans" and on the other a determined group who resent the attitude of England on the Panama canal tolls question and her refusal to take part in the Pacific exposition, it is refreshing to turn to a speech made recently in the house of representatives by Hon. George M. Young of North Dakota in which he called the attention of the house to a little known but very important treaty, made without a blare of trumpets or a very liberal display of red tape, between America and England. This treaty is known in history as the "Bagot and Rush" treaty and had for its object the mutual reduction of the naval forces of the great lakes. The treaty was made in 1817 by Charles Bagot, British minister to the United States and Richard Rush, acting secretary of state. The treaty was ratified by the United States senate and duly proclaimed by President Monroe, April 23, 1815.

Although this treaty when made was called an "exchange of notes," it was very far reaching in its consequences, and the simplicity and directness of its terms followed by "a century of naval disarmament upon the great inland seas of the North American continent" demonstrate that peace treaties such as those recently advocated by Secretary of State Bryan are not as impracticable as many who do not admire him profess to believe. The following extract from the speech of Mr. Young will illustrate the beneficial effect of this "Bagot and Rush" treaty and the honor with which each of the contracting parties has adhered to its provisions:

Those who favor naval disarmament by international agreement will find here the most practical illustration of the wisdom of that policy. For almost a century cities and towns have been permitted to grow up around the Great Lakes—the inland seas—without the least fear of destruction by a "naval force." Think of great cities like Chicago, Detroit, Toronto, and Montreal without the investment of a single dollar for land defenses either in men or forts. Think of what it has meant to business and the peaceful pursuits of these two great countries. It is worthy of note that there was a section in this treaty which provided that it might be annulled by either of the high contracting parties by giving six months' notice. In spite of the simple, easy method provided for its annulment it has remained in force for almost a century, has been a blessing to the people of two great nations, and is a powerful argument for naval disarmament the world over.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE

The agitation over the Binghamton fire tragedy has not as yet died down. It has given an impetus to fire protection campaigns in many places among which Boston is especially prominent.

In that city, the mayor is constantly urging reforms in this respect and occasional reports justify his attitude. Fire Commissioner Cole of Boston recently declared before a legislative committee which was investigating the conditions under which women and children labor that "a factory in Boston employs 5000 persons, nearly all of them women, where most of the time only one door is left unlocked." Considering this terrible state of affairs we do not need to be told that "in case of fire the loss of life would be frightful." The terrible possibilities of conflagrations in crowded shops ought to urge the authorities on to the utmost vigilance, in Lowell as well as in New York or Boston.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS

Postal reforms come thick and fast. On September 2, the postal savings bank system will be extended so that every presidential postoffice will be a bank. This is a splendid idea which has worked successfully in most of the great countries of the old world; it would undoubtedly have been in force here years ago were it not for the diffidence of congress on the one hand and the opposition of the banking interests and express companies on the other. Where the postal savings banks have been already established they have been a great success and a genuine benefit to the community. Their extension will ultimately prove one of the wisest and most far reaching reforms of years. Postmaster General Burdison has demonstrated unmistakably that he is alert and active, and actuated by a desire for the good of the country. One looking for effects from the present administration can find little fault with him or the generalship he has shown thus far.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Clean Food
Woonsocket Call: The women of New York have taken up the crusade against dirty food. Clean food is as necessary as what we call pure food. No man has any right to eat more than his pack of dirt. Most people have been getting several of them.

Not Yet
Springfield Union: At some time in the dim and distant future, Secretary of the Navy Daniels says, there will be uniforms, but it is not so important that we afford to disband the army and let the navy fall into disrepair. In other words, the Hon. Josephus believes in hoping for and expecting peace, but being always prepared for the other thing.

Lind's Misdoon
Sashua Telegraph: Huerta has publicly proclaimed his refusal of mediation and other suggestions which have been lumped up in the air. Mr. Lind may possess marvellous discretion but his mission is attended with risks that never should have been taken even if an effort to disband the army and let the navy fall into disrepair. It is an emissary to nobody who is entitled to receive him officially without the standing or the safeguard of an ambassador.

Chicago's Policemen
Brooklyn Times: Chicago's policemen doubtless will be more than palmed to learn, through the new list of don'ts the police department intends to treat them like common ordinary women instead of superior beings. There are some very familiar warnings among the don'ts. For instance, don't talk too much, and don't stretch the truth. In spite of suffrage and all that goes with it, a woman is but a woman in Chicago.

Joking Dangerous
Worcester Post: Ambassador Gerard hastens to enable the president that he was only "joking" in that talk about a $10 fee from Americans traveling in Europe in order to provide money for embassies. It was impossible to believe that he could seriously entertain any such notion; but joking is dangerous for diplomats.

Walsh
Boston Traveler: Will some enthusiastic anti-Walsh statesman explain how Walsh, as a candidate for governor, is to be defeated for election by two of the opposing candidates? Bird will not withdraw. Benton will not withdraw, and nobody—not even Walsh himself—knows what he intends to do. He may sign an indorsement for Walsh before the campaign closes.

Hires the Help
Manchester Mirror: Office workers are not good for much unless they acquire accuracy and thoroughness. But in the happy days of school life there are so many dances that must be attended that it comes pretty hard to do the last part of payment. The anti-climax of all this fun comes when the young folks go up against the man who hires the help.

A Single Throw
Newburyport Herald: Castro is staking everything on a single throw. If he loses in this revolution he is likely to follow Maximilian and other unsuccessful leaders in Latin America to the black wall and file of musketeers.

Unneeded Warnings
Fall River Globe: It is strange that with the Triangle and Binghamton horrors in mind it should be necessary to bring offending employers into court to suppress upon them the fact that they must observe the requirements of the law which are designed as a measure of protection against a repetition of these calamities. Nevertheless the inspectors in New York city have been finding the doors of some of the work rooms in the high left buildings, there locked during working hours, in violation of the statutes.

Women Smoking
Lawrence Sun: Public opinion will probably soon make changes in the attitude of both sexes toward My Lady Nicotine. The gates of all occupations are falling before the daughters of Eve. They can work at any honest, clean trade. Their habits and diversions will be likely to coincide more and more with men's. The future will probably see less discrimination between them and men on the tobacco question.

REV. B. F. COOLEY DEAD

Was Formerly Stationed at Chelmsford

WESTFIELD, Aug. 2.—Rev. Benjamin Franklin Cooley, aged 79, died at his home, 15 King street, yesterday.

He recently returned from the Evan Kelley home in Holyoke, where he had been undergoing treatment. He was a pioneer in the Oxford movement in the Episcopal church. Rev. Mr. Cooley was born in Granville, son of Timothy and Jeanette (Andrews) Cooley. For some time he was organist in several Connecticut churches and had entered the ministry, being ordained by Bishop Eastborn of the diocese of Massachusetts. His early churches were at Chelmsford and Leominster. Later he went west and became a zealous advocate of the Oxford movement. He was precursor of the cathedral at Fond-du-Lac, Minn., rector of a church in Fargo, N. D., and was in charge of churches in Ontario and Nova Scotia. Returning east, he had churches at Easthampton and Beekmantown. He returned to Westfield 25 years ago and had occupied several pulpits in this section during that time, though he had no regular church. He leaves a wife. The funeral will take place at the Church of the Abolition Sunday afternoon.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A large number of the members of the Passawayway tribe gathered in their vicar in Odd Fellows temple last night with Sachem Daniel E. Starkey on the stump. It was voted to meet twice monthly beginning with January, 1914 and the dues were raised $1 per month. The trustees reported that the Indian statue on the monument in the Edison cemetery had been repaired and put in good condition. A communication from the great Sachem was read and it was learned that the second term will expire on the fourth Saturday of October at which time the convention will be held. There were interesting remarks by Brothers E. T. Howard, E. F. Riney and Sachem Starkey.

GERMANY FAVORS HUERTA REGIME

Denies That the Government is Familiar With the Contents of President Wilson's Message

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—Reports from Washington that President Wilson's message to Provisional President Huerta had been sent, also on behalf of other interested governments are incorrect so far as Germany is concerned. The German foreign office today declared that it did not know the contents of President Wilson's message. Officials here avoid any suggestion of an attempt to influence President Wilson's policy in regard to Mexico but it is apparent that recognition of the government headed by Huerta is favored here.

Many references are made by officials to the recommendation of diplomats in Mexico, including the German minister there in favor of recognition, which Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States unofficially brought to the attention of the United States government at Washington some time ago.

It is not believed here in official circles that Provisional President Huerta will oppose John Lind when he arrives in Mexico City.

JAPANESE SEND DEMAND TO CHINA

AMOI, China, Aug. 9.—The Japanese government today sent a demand to the Chinese authorities here for the execution of three of the semi-Mongolian Tungan tribesmen and also an indemnity for the destruction of property and the killing and wounding of a number of Formosans in the recent clan fighting in this city. The demands must be filled by tomorrow, according to the note sent by the Japanese.

The Chinese officials replied agreeing to the condition except as to the time for carrying them out. They declare it impossible for them to effect the arrest of the clansmen in the period stated, as they have fled to the interior of the province.

MAY SELECT SITE FOR HOSPITAL

At Next Meeting of the Municipal Council—Rep. Jewett Suggests Shack System—Other News

It is believed that action on the proposed isolation hospital will be taken at the next meeting of the municipal council which will be held next Tuesday at 11 o'clock. All the sites offered for the erection of this proposed hospital, with the exception of one, that of Mr. Reagan in Varnum avenue which was submitted to the council yesterday, have been visited.

Rep. Victor F. Jewett, who is a member of the committee recently appointed by house of representatives to obtain data concerning the care and treatment of tuberculosis in the various cities in the state discussed the hospital site question this morning. Mr. Jewett said the tuberculosis question is a very important one, and that Lowell ought to have a hospital to treat those afflicted by the white plague.

"The trouble with the city officials," said Mr. Jewett, "is that they believe they are supposed to put up a palace for the treatment of tuberculosis, while all that is really necessary is the shack or camp system as now in use at the Lowell General Hospital."

"As much as could be learned by the committee from the legislature there, only one other city as large as Lowell, which will not establish a hospital unless compelled to do so, and that is Brockton."

"While the state really wants in this isolation hospital business is that each city shall care for chronic cases of tuberculosis. The state will take care of the new cases, or the early stages of the disease, and try to prevent its spread, but the city is supposed to establish an isolation hospital for the chronic cases, so as to give the sufferers of the white plague an opportunity to be taken care of at home, and breathe their last in their home city, instead of being sent away from friends or relatives."

"Lowell has now 42 cases of tuberculosis, 35 of which are being cared for by the state, while the others are under the supervision of the city. In Cambridge there are 270 cases of tuberculosis, and all of them are under the care of the city."

Mr. Jewett then spoke of the various cities, where isolation hospitals have been established, and told of the good these institutions are doing. He said for a city of the population of Lowell, he would recommend an institution with about 100 beds, that is, one bed to each hundred inhabitants. He said the committee will be kept busy until the last of the year, at which time their report will be put in shape for the next session of the legislature.

To Enforce the Law
Commissioner Cummings of the public property department has made up his mind to enforce the law relative to the city ordinance in relation to permits for the construction of buildings in this city. In talking with the writer this forenoon, Mr. Cummings said there are many in Lowell who have in their mind that the question of getting a permit at city hall to erect a dwelling or any sort of building, is red tape, and the result is that someone will go right along and put up a house, and won't come near this office for a permit, until the work is well advanced, some one else when they are notified to do so, "This will have to stop," said Mr. Cummings, "or the violators will suffer the consequences. I want everybody in Lowell to understand that they are not to start on the erection of a building before they get a permit from this office, otherwise the law will take its course."

No More Smallpox
All hands connected with the board of health office at city hall, were a satisfied smile this forenoon, when Agent Bates announced that the smallpox hospital in Chelmsford street was closed, and he hoped it would be forever. The last patients, Mrs. Lena Fawcett and her baby, were released.

Am Can pf	93	92 1/2	92 1/2		NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The usual midsummer week-end conditions prevailed today, trading being dull and obviously professional. The course of certain railway issues suggested further apprehension respecting crop damage, St. Paul, Great Northern and Canadian Pacific losing material fractions with heaviness in the Harbors, U. P. falling one point. Erie first preferred also showed pressure. Among specialties American Express lost over two points with declines of a point or more in International Paper, and Mexican Petroleum. Gains were confined to unimportant issues, including Washash and Delaware and Hudson. Interborough, was the only prominent utility with a one point gain.
Am Car & F.	45 1/2	45 1/4	45 1/4		The market closed heavy. Prices of western railroad stocks continued to reflect the apprehension felt over crop conditions. Knowledge that considerable damage has occurred since the completion of the government statistics encouraged selling for both accounts. Higher prices for grain options in the speculative market facilitated the uncovering of stop loss orders. London reflected the pessimistic existing here over the crop situation, quotations from abroad for the grain carriers being down. Declines locally approximated a point for some of the well known issues and heaviness in the copper shares suggested some revision of opinion regarding yesterday's producers report. TRADE DULL
BOSTON, Aug. 9.—The usual midsummer week-end conditions prevailed today, trading being dull and obviously professional. The course of certain railway issues suggested further apprehension respecting crop damage, St. Paul, Great Northern and Canadian Pacific losing material fractions with heaviness in the Harbors, U. P. falling one point. Erie first preferred also showed pressure. Among specialties American Express lost over two points with declines of a point or more in International Paper, and Mexican Petroleum. Gains were confined to unimportant issues, including Washash and Delaware and Hudson. Interborough, was the only prominent utility with a one point gain.

DESTRUCTIVE THEATRE
LONDON, Aug. 9.—A group of militant suffragettes armed with horsewhips today assaulted Dr. Allen Campbell Pearson, the medical officer of Holloway jail, as he was entering the prison gates. The attack was made as a protest against the treatment in the jail of Miss May Richardson while undergoing a sentence of three months' imprisonment for breaking windows. Miss Richardson alleged that the doctor had threatened to deal with the militant suffragettes in such a way as to make them physical and mental wrecks, after which they would be confined in lunatic asylums.

AMERICA WILL RESIST
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Efforts of the Peking government to place dependable troops in Nanking and Chin-kiang, where the troops revolted against the government, but later resumed allegiance, will be resisted according to opinions expressed in a report to the state department today from the American legation at Peking. Reinforcements are being sent, it was added, to force the surrender of the forts at Woosung, Kiangsu province, which strongholds are still being held by rebels against fierce attacks by northern forces.

TAX RATE FOR 1913
It is expected that the assessors will announce the tax rate for 1913 within a few days. The assessors have been busy on the tax rate for several days and the announcement was made in these columns some time ago that there would probably be an increase of 50 cents a thousand over the present rate. It was stated today, on very good authority, that the increase would approximate 60 cents. The tax rate for 1912 was 11.

YOUNG NURSE FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM ON CHARGE OF POISONING DOCTOR

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Miss Emma E. Krill, the pretty young nurse whose love for Dr. Stanley E. Tron led her into her present difficulty, denies emphatically that she poisoned him with morphine and will fight for her freedom. A New York lawyer has taken up the case, although Miss Krill is reported to be without money, and will attempt to gain her release. She and Dr. Tron lived together, and the nurse refuses to say whether they were married or not. The supposition of the police is that they were never wedded, but that the doctor had promised to marry the girl. His delay or refusal to do so coupled with the fact that he was planning to go to Europe alone is given as the motive of the murder. The police have revealed Miss Krill's love tragedy by confiscating her letters and effects. It is claimed that the evidence warrants the nurse being tried for murder.

WOMEN WILL TESTIFY

EXPECT 30,000 PERSONS
At Convention of Federation of Catholic Societies
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 9.—Thirty thousand persons are expected in Milwaukee to participate in the twelfth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, which will be held Aug. 10 to 13. Of this number 450 will be delegates representing more than three million members of the various societies which make up the federation. Among the most prominent persons who will be present are Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland, Kears, Most Rev. and Quigley, and Bishops Mulcahy, McFarland, Schaubach, Egan, Skinner, Fox and Koudelka. Nearly all of these will address the convention. The ceremonies are scheduled to begin Sunday morning when the delegates will attend a pontifical high mass at St. John's cathedral auditorium. Cardinal Gibbons will be in charge of this service.

FATHER OF "GEN" JONES DEAD
Dr. Jones, Wealthy Retired Physician, Died of Self-Inflicted Bullet Wound
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Dr. Oliver Livingston Jones, a wealthy retired physician and father of "General" Rosalie Jones, a suffragist leader, died in a hospital here today of self-inflicted bullet wounds. The police have recorded the case as one of suicide, although members of the family insist that it was accidental. Dr. Jones shot himself in the head with a revolver at his residence yesterday.

Police Quell Strike Riot
BOSTON, Aug. 9.—The striking members of the Hebrew Walters' union of the I. W. W. made demonstrations in front of two delicatessen stores and restaurants in the West End last night, and as a result it was necessary for the reserves to be called from the Joy street police station to quell the trouble.

Polis Attempt of Burglary
WESTLEY, R. I., Aug. 9.—The police of Massachusetts and Rhode Island are hunting for a burglar who twice within a few days attempted to break into the premises of Captain Herbert O. Dunn, U. S. N., on the outskirts of the town. The burglars' attempts in each case were foiled by the plucky work of Dr. Daisy M. Dunn of Boston.

Spiders Eat Gypsy Moths
BOSTON, Aug. 9.—At last a use for gypsy moths has been discovered. They make the very best of spider food, and as a result, the spiders who have been eating them have grown so fat and numerous that they are obstructing the lights on Harvard bridge.

Seven Home Runs Yesterday
Lively slugging, reminiscent of the early part of the season of 1911, featured some of the "big" league games yesterday. Among the long hits made were seven home runs. Leaders of the Philadelphia Nationals, leading with two of them in a 15 to 3 defeat of Chicago, Becker added his team in the 9th with one home run, and the others were made by Hobbie of Cincinnati, Rodie of the Chicago Americans, Wingo of the St. Louis Nationals and Wilson of Pittsburgh. Two years ago the unusual amount of slugging was promptly accounted for by theory that the balls were made with an extra live core. Later an experiment made by a National league umpire and a Boston newspaperman indicated that at least some of the balls then in use were over weight, which made the hurlers unable to curve them.

Rep. Thompson Wants Nuisance Abolished
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—No puffing locomotive will come within twenty miles of the capital if Representative Charles M. Thompson, a progressive republican of Illinois, has his way. He has introduced a bill in the house to compel railroads entering Washington to electrify their lines within a radius of a score

BILLIONS INVOLVED IN THE MEXICAN MIXUP

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

WHENEVER discussion of the Mexican question arises one is very apt to hear some one say the United States should "let Mexico settle her own troubles and let us attend to our own business and be ready, any time to render such service as seems proper."

That sounds like good advice, does it not? It is good advice, but it seems to escape the notice of the adviser and of others that the course advocated as the proper one for Uncle Sam to pursue is exactly the path which the old gentleman marked out for himself some time ago. The result has not been satisfactory.

When the United States "lets Mexico settle her own troubles" she proceeds to heap up more of the same sort. When the United States takes steps "to be ready any time to render such service as seems proper," such as having troops on the Texas border ready for action and disinterestedly advising the Mexicans to put their government on a firm constitutional basis, the Washington government is accused of meddling and is suspected by Mexicans and others of having designs on Mexican territory.

Just how far the revolt or revolts against President Victoriano Huerta had proceeded before President Wilson of the United States summoned Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson home for a conference no man, either in Mexico or out, seemed to be able to tell. Washington officials high in rank, charged by the duties of their offices with responsibility in dealing directly with Mexico, confessed their ignorance. So did leading Mexicans in and out of their unhappy country.

How can a foreigner, for instance, find the truth when the representative of President Huerta in the United States says that "it is now a well established public fact that the so called revolutions in Mexico, which are merely unfortunate local domestic affairs magnified greatly by publicity, are becoming very profitable speculations for adventurers and filibusters, who make a business thereof, commercializing arms, ammunition, concessions, properties and securities to that end and poisoning public sentiments and opinions?"

And when at about the same time Senator Hall of New Mexico issues a statement saying:

"The Huerta government, so called, has only been able to maintain itself without opposition of an armed character in the City of Mexico and other certain other garrisoned towns in the republic."

"The greater portions of each of twenty-five states out of the twenty-seven are at present in the hands of the opposition to Huerta, whether the opposition of the present allegiance be to Zapata, Carranza, Pesqueira, Martinez or other leaders. In the two remaining states armed bands are in operation against the Huerta troops."

Provocation for American intervention in Mexican affairs is found, of course, in the disturbed state of business in that country, involving Mexican, American and foreign investments. Mines cannot be operated when miners cannot work for fear of bullets, and managers live in constant dread of being shot if they refuse demands for money, dynamite, arms and ammunition and supplies. Cattle ranches cannot be maintained in order if there is no certainty that morning will not find the corrals broken open and the animals run off. So it goes all along the lines of business in Mexico.

"The sugar cane industry in the states of Morelos and Puebla has suffered enormous losses in the past few months by the depredations of rebels," says one recent report. "The cane growing districts are overrun by armed men who live by foraging, and conditions have grown steadily worse under President Huerta. Zapata, leader of the rebels in the south, has forced sugar planters to pay heavy tribute. The burden has fallen chiefly on Mexican and Spanish property owners."

In addition to these losses, the internal strife in Mexico has postponed investment of American and foreign capital in sugar lands and the development of this as well as other branches of agriculture."

In advice sent to the state department by Marion Letcher, consul at Chihuahua, the comparative commercial interests of the United States and other foreign countries in Mexico that have been imperiled by the revolution are shown. The data were supplied by mining engineers mainly and are regarded as conservative.

United States citizens have a total of capital invested and properties owned of $1,037,000,000, the largest foreign holdings in Mexico. Great Britain has a total of $321,000,000 and France $143,000,000. Mr. Letcher's informants were unable to give him the total capitalization of the properties owned by German investors, but the amount is not considered greater than that of the British. The investment of native Mexican capital in the same line of properties as those included for the United States, England and France is $793,000,000, and that of all other countries combined is nearly $118,500,000.

The United States investors have put $236,000,000 in Mexican railway stocks, $108,000,000 in bonds, $1,800,000 in bank stocks, $22,700,000 in bank deposits, $223,000,000 in mines, $26,500,000 in smelters, $52,000,000 in national bonds, $8,000,000 in timberlands, $3,150,000 in ranches, $8,000,000 in manufacturing enterprises, $15,000,000 in oil properties and $15,000,000 in the rubber industry.

These items are exceeded in no instances by the investments of other foreigners in Mexico, save that Great Britain holds $67,000,000 of Mexican national bonds, which is $10,000,000 more than Americans hold, and France has $60,000,000, an excess of $8,000,000 over the American interest.

United States investors are very largely the owners of Mexico's railroads. Mexican capitalists have $125,440,000 of Mexican railway stocks—less than half the amount owned by citizens of the United States—and only $15,275,500 of railway bonds.

All this enormous total of investment money taken into Mexico and left there in anticipation of a stable government that would permit the undertaking of permanent improvements, the development of the country and the making of profits, is endangered by the political turmoil.

Take, for example, the case of the National railways, a government institution with a large amount of European and American capital. It is one of the chief sufferers from the various revolutions.

The company is operating slightly less than 45 per cent of its mileage, and its gross revenues for the first week in July were only $600,000 as compared with $900,000 for the corresponding week of last year, which, in turn, had shown a loss of $300,000 from the year before.

WORLD'S BEST MARKSMEN AT CAMP PERRY TOURNAMENT

Photos by American Press Association.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS ON THE FIRING RANGE.

IN the days of the long hunting rifle competitions is any test. They are at Camp Perry, and they will try to of the backwoodsmen, when Davy Crockett and his rivals could hit their capricious target in the eye at 300 yards rifle matches to be held or shot at Buenos Aires and Ottawa last year, or so the story books told us, at any Camp Perry, Ohio, from Aug. 13 to Sept. 2.

—American riflemen were considered the best in the world. They're Riflemen from sixteen foreign countries have been entered in the matches and Canadian dignitaries they met the enemy on his own ground and took the honors away from him.

In straight shooting at targets with military rifles Americans have little to fear from their foreign competitors, but some of the matches arranged for the Camp Perry meeting present unusual features, and they may trip up the marksmen of the states.

The hard test will come in what is termed "the international rifle shooting championship of the world." It is a competition which has been going on for sixteen years among the European nations and in which the honors have gone easily to the Swiss. These fellows with the crossbarred legs and the eyes trained to hunt the chamois on his native crags have walked away with fifteen of the sixteen of the former matches.

The match calls for shooting at 300 meters against decimal ring targets, using what is designated in Europe as the "free" rifle. There is no limit to the weight of the gun. It is equipped with a hair trigger, and the stock is shaped so that it fits the contour of the shoulder and face.

In the standing position the arm is supported by a palm rest that extends under the barrel with a knob at the end. The knob is held in the palm of the hand. The stocks are so made as to be adjustable at different angles for different positions. The shooting is done in three positions, the marksman being required to fire forty shots standing, forty shots kneeling and forty shots prone.

The American marksmen made a great hit in Buenos Aires last year, and the Argentine Republic donated a silver trophy for the team winning at Camp Perry. Besides, the team carries off $1,000 in gold. Next in importance to this match is the contest for the famous Palma trophy. Canada, Sweden and the Argentine will try to carry that off this year. It was won from Canada by the American shooters last year.

Nineteen hundred and twelve will be forever a red letter year in the chronicles of American rifle shooting, and 1913 may be another. In three countries to which the Yankees went last year they carried off first honors. At the Olympic games in Stockholm they won the international team match with the military rifle. Another team went to the Argentine Republic and captured the international team match of the newly organized Pan-American Shooting union. A third team descended on Ottawa, Canada, and brought back with it the Palma trophy, winning by eight points.

The United States army is taking great official and individual interest in the Camp Perry competitions. Many of the best marksmen of the army are entered in the competitions. The army authorities designated forty-two officers to act as range officers.

Sing Sing, New York Prison, Rival of Calcutta's "Black Hole," to Be Demolished

And they do well to hide their hell, For in it things are done That Son of God nor son of man Ever should look upon! —From "The Ballad of Reading Gaol," by Oscar Wilde.

FOR almost a century New York state has had in Sing Sing prison one of the best known places of detention for criminals in the world. When penologists and criminologists have spoken of prisons for the purposes of comparison they have brought in Sing Sing as one of the largest of the world's jails.

Now they are voicing a demand for the demolition of Sing Sing prison. Their demand is supported by the united voices of statesmen, politicians and reformers. For many years Sing Sing has been a stench in the nostrils of all decent minded men, say these investigators. It is time to wipe it out and either build a new prison on its site or abandon the site altogether.

There are eighty-eight years of frightful history inclosed in the gray walls of Sing Sing. When the prison was erected, in 1825-8, the light of reason and humanity, to guide those who had dealings with offenders against the laws, had not dawned on the world. A criminal in those days, save to very few isolated reformers, was no longer a man; he had become a wild beast, a ferum nature, to be hunted and hounded out of the world as fast as possible. The newer, better ideal of regarding a breaker of laws as a man afflicted with a disease, as a victim of heredity or environment, had not arisen.

So Sing Sing, as were other prisons of that and former days, was built as a place of punishment for offenders, not as a place wherein men might possibly be reformed and restored to the world. Its narrow, cramped, unclean cells were and are adapted to the former end. They are cells for wild beasts in the form of men rather than places of abode for men formed in the image of their maker.

Sanitary science was almost unknown away back in the days of the building of Sing Sing, and its advance has passed the prison by. Cells intended to hold one man with inconvenience and distress of body and mind are now often made to hold two. There is no running water in the cells. Many of them are below the level of the Hudson river, on whose east bank the prison stands, near the village of Ossining, and the water seeps in and collects in dirty pools on the floors of the cells.

A man goes to Sing Sing under sentence of the law. He is well and strong physically, however depraved and distorled he may be morally or mentally. The state sentences him to confinement for a term of years. It does not sentence him to tuberculosis or chronic rheumatism or confinement in solitary imprisonment for eighteen hours at a time.

It has been said on good legal authority that a prisoner having competent counsel could demand release from Sing Sing on the plea that the constitution of the United States and that of the state of New York forbid the infliction of "cruel and unusual punishment."

Let this be thought exaggerated.

"No fitter school could be devised for the moral, mental and physical disfigurement of the man, in which he either succumbs to painful and lingering disease and death or survives to continue on his release the life of crime which preceded his incarceration."

It is no wonder that the Sing Sing prisoners thought no punishment Warden Glancy and his subordinates could inflict worse than that to which the state had sentenced them, so they mutinied and set fire to the shops. Damage to the extent of $200,000 was done. As a result hundreds of the mu-

here is a quotation from a recent message by Governor Sulzer in regard to Sing Sing:

"I am mortified by the revelations. Today and for many years past this state has confined many thousands of convicts in cells seven feet long, three feet and three inches wide and six feet and seven inches in height. These cells are constructed in a rectangular cell block of solid masonry. The only opening in these cells is through the door. The door opens on a corridor, which itself is inclosed in the prison building. In many of these masonry pockets in Sing Sing there are confined two prisoners.

Of the insanitary conditions in the prison nothing may be printed here. They are too horrible for description anywhere save in an official, closely guarded report, written for the purpose of aiding reform.

This extraordinary real estate offers an opportunity to any person to invest their money where a large return is sure to be had, as it has always been to the estate, and has been ever since the death of Mr. Bibeault, and while Mr. Bibeault lived he refused to sell this class of property, as it paid him a large per cent. on his money than could be received in anything else. The return from the estate have been very substantial and can pay for themselves in a few years from their own revenue, but the heirs want the property sold and the money divided, so we will sell without limit to the highest bidder that complies with the conditions of sale. A substantial mortgage can remain and a full description an details will be given at the sale. Make all inquiries of Gedeon Rochette, Eugene H. Cantin, administrator of the estate of Alphonse Bibeault, or J. M. Farrell, auctioneer.
